Rubinstein Wins Another Day Of Freedom

Appeals Court Asks Seizure Be Deferred

Financier Rebuffed By District Judge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — Serge Rubinstein today won at least 24 more hours of freedom while higher federal courts decide whether to let the Russian-born New York financier be seized on a deportation order.

But first he lost an effort in U. S. District Court here to obtain an order forbidding Attorney General McGranery to have him arrested until the whole case is thrashed out legally.

That ruling by Judge David A. Pine came just at the 4 p. m. (EST) deadline McGranery had set for Rubinsteins surrender in New York. McGranery promptly set Immigration Service officers on a manhunt here, on word from Edward Ennis, one of Rubinstein's lawyers, that his client had come to Washington with him.

Appeals Court Asks Delay

Meanwhile Ennis scurried from Pine's courtroom to the Court of Appeals in an effort to overturn the District Court ruling.

A three-judge panel of the higher court did not enter a formal order but requested the Justice Department to delay action, indicating its decision would come tomorrow.

McGranery thereupon sent out word that the department would "respect" the request.

And there the matter stood tonight after a day of rapid-fire action in a new climax to a fight against deportation which Rubinstein has been carrying on much of the time for 10 years.

Only the question of immediate detention of the one-time "Boy Wonder of Wall Street," who served time for draft-dodging, was involved in the day's maneuvering.

Petition Awaits Disposal

Still to be disposed of is a petition from Rubinstein for a full legal review of the deportation action, which is hinged on the World War II draft-dodging case.

Rubinstein served a two and a half year prison sentence after he was convicted in 1947 on the draft charges.

His counsel, in fighting the current deportation order, contends that no "moral turpitude" — the necessary ground for deportation—was involved in that affair.

Rubinstein already has beaten one deportation move. The Board of Immigration Appeals in 1943 reversed a deportation order based on charges that he entered this country on a Portuguese passport fraudulently obtained.

Children See For First Time

Ignacio Rodelo, 13, and his sister, Emma, 12, got their first look at the world and themselves yesterday. They are shown studying themselves in a mirror held by their father, Ignacio Rodelo, Sr., San Diego, Calif. Doctors, who refused to disclose their identity, removed blinding cataracts from the children's eyes as a Christmas Eve gift. Bandages were taken off yesterday.

Taft Sees Congress In Harmony With Ike

Still Considers Durkin's Choice As 'Incredible'

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft talked with President-elect Eisenhower today and said he expected harmony between the White House and Congress although he still thought the general's appointment of Martin Durkin as labor secretary was "incredible."

Taft and three GOP senatorial colleagues conferred with Eisenhower for 2½ hours, largely on a prospective legislative program, but also on procedure for job appointments in the new administration.

Taft told newsmen he felt "a general understanding" had been reached for "adequate consultation of senators" with respect to new appointments.

Some Complaints, Taft Says

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts said Eisenhower "indicated a desire to cooperate with Congress in legislative matters, on appointments and all other matters."

To a question whether the general had not been cooperative in the past, Taft declared:

"Some senators have complained —some members of the House and Senate."

It was the first meeting between Eisenhower and Taft since the Ohioan hung the "incredible" tag on the appointment of Durkin.

Durkin, a Democrat and chief of the AFL Plumbers Union, had criticized the Taft-Hartley labor relations act, which Taft authored, and supported Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, against Eisenhower in the recent campaign.

Taft Stands By Remark

Taft told a news conference, "We didn't discuss Durkin but the method of appointments and the part of the Senate in consulting on appointments."

"Do you still consider the appointment of Mr. Durkin as incredible?" a newsman asked.

"Yes," Taft shot back sharply.

Taft was asked whether the appointment of Durkin might have been "headed off" if there had been a conference such as today's in advance.

"I think so," he replied. "It might have and it might not have."

A-Spy Makes It Clear He Doesn't Repent His Act

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Dr. Alan Nunn May, the West's first atom spy, said today he still thinks he did right in slipping A-bomb secrets to the Russians in World War II. He hopes to get another scientific job to serve Britain and "my fellow men."

Freed from prison yesterday after serving six years and eight months of a 10-year sentence, the 41-year old British scientist declared in a signed statement he had been "wholeheartedly concerned with securing victory over Nazi Germany and Japan and with the furtherance of the development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy in this country."

As at the time of his arrest in 1946, he gave no sign he was sorry he had spied for the Russians, who paid him off in dollars and whisky. He made it clear he does not repent his act.

After 36 hours of mystery as to his whereabouts, May's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Nunn May, said he was resting in her cottage in Chalfont St. Peter, near London. She handed May's statement to a reporter.

Typewritten and signed "A. N. May" in pencil, it said:

"1. I don't wish to discuss the details of the action which led to my imprisonment. I myself think that I acted rightly and I believe many others think so too.

"To those who think otherwise, I would like to point out that I have suffered the punishment which was inflicted on me by the law and I hope I shall now be entitled to at least the consideration normally granted to released convicts: an opportunity to restart life.

"2. There is just one of many erroneous statements of fact which have been made about me which I should like to correct now. I was not convicted of treason, nor was the word used by the prosecution or judge at my trial and I certainly had no treasonable intentions.

"I was wholeheartedly concerned with securing victory over Nazi Germany and Japan and with the furtherance of the development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy in this country.

"3. My object now is to obtain as soon as possible an opportunity of doing useful scientific work in which I can be of some service to this country and to my fellow men.

"4. Now that my imprisonment is over, I can only wish for the same consideration and fair treatment which I received throughout the long period of my sentence from the prison officials and my fellow prisoners."

Fate Of Atomic Spy Team May Eventually Rest In Hands Of Ike

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP) — The judge who doomed the Rosenberg atom spy team indicated today he may delay execution to give them time for a White House appeal.

This raised the possibility that the fate of Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, may eventually rest in the hands of President-elect Eisenhower, who takes office Jan. 20.

The Rosenbergs are scheduled to die the previous week — probably Jan. 15—in the Sing Sing Prison electric chair for conspiring to betray atom secrets to Russia. They are the first Americans ever so condemned in a civil court.

The approaching execution has aroused a storm of protest, spearheaded by the Communist party.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman said today he has been "hounded and pounded and vilified and pressured" for dooming the American-born husband and wife to death.

Big Steel Ration Assures Spring Building Speedup

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—The government announced today a record allocation of structural steel —1,692,000 tons—will be distributed to the nation's builders for the second quarter of 1953.

It is the biggest allocation made since the defense mobilization program began more than two years ago.

The Defense Production Administration said the new steel ration assures a speedup next spring in expansion of vital public services—highways, bridges, power, barges, railroad cars and locomotives.

The April-May-June structural steel ration, destined for both military and civilian users, is the first to be made on the basis of a full quarter's supply since the nationwide steel strike last summer.

Controls To Be Relaxed Jan. 1

It also may be the last allocation to civilian industry. Production officials have indicated they are considering dismantling the allocation machinery next June 30, except for the military and atomic programs.

A fairly broad relaxation of construction controls on New Year's Day already has been announced. This will remove the ban on erection of theaters, night clubs, amusement and recreational places and will liberalize allotments for most other types of building.

Today's allocation, announced by Acting DPA Administrator Ralph S. Trigg, assigns to the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission the full tonnages of steel they requested for work on atomic and military installations.

More Steel For Highways

It also provides what Trigg called "strong support" for the swiftly expanding electric power industry and for petroleum development.

The greatest increase was granted to the Bureau of Public Roads for street and highway construction. The bureau will have 185,000 tons to distribute among the states, as against 115,621 tons in the first quarter.

A special reserve of nearly 211,000 tons was earmarked to cover the relaxation of construction controls, under which thousands of builders will be permitted to use steel within specified limits without obtaining advance allocations from the government.

Will Not Name Those Making Loyalty Check

Charges Lodged Against Officials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — Angry House investigators today asked Secretary of State Acheson to testify tomorrow on what Rep. Frank Chelf (D-Ky) called the State Department's "colossal flop" in dealing with disloyal Americans in the United Nations.

Acheson announced he would accept the invitation to appear.

The request for Acheson to take the witness stand came right after the Cabinet officer rejected a demand that he disclose the names of State Department officials in charge of checking on the loyalty of American citizens on the U. N. payroll.

Acheson said he was acting "on instructions" from President Truman.

State Dept. Opens Probe

In other fast-breaking developments, the State Department announced to the House group:

1. That charges have been lodged against "four or five" State Department employes assigned to evaluate the loyalty of Americans employed by the U. N., and the department has started an investigation. No names were given.

2. That the Federal Bureau of Investigation, for the first time, will make full-scale inquiries into possible Communist backgrounds of all Americans employed in key U. N. posts.

Adrian Fisher, State Department legal adviser, said President Truman is now preparing an executive order providing for the FBI investigations. Only minor employes will be exempt. The order is expected tomorrow.

53 On FBI "Adverse List"

Testifying before the House judiciary subcommittee, Fisher said the President's order would provide that at any stage of the FBI checkups, U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie may be given "derogatory information" about American employes "as a basis for suspension . . . pending a final determination" by U. S. loyalty boards.

Earlier, Deputy U. S. Atty. Gen. Ross Malone testified that the FBI had made adverse loyalty reports on 53 Americans employed on the U. N. staff. So far, only 27 have been fired.

The "adverse list" of 53 contained coded numbers, without names.

Bidault Gives Up Attempt To Form French Cabinet

PARIS, Dec. 30 (AP)—Former Premier Georges Bidault tonight gave up his attempt to form a government and dropped France's Cabinet crisis back into the lap of President Vincent Auriol.

Bidault began his attempt yesterday. He failed because several leading parties in Parliament refused to go along with his demand for wider powers in governing the country.

Soustelle Also Failed

Bidault, 53, leader of the mainly Catholic Popular Republican Movement (MRP), was the third political leader whom Auriol had asked to try to form a government since Antoine Pinay resigned a week ago.

Socialist Leader Guy Mollet refused the president's bid without even trying to form a government. Jacques Soustelle of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) gave up his try after failing to win enough support among other parliamentary leaders.

Bidault announced tonight that he had given up his attempt because the "opposition uncertainty" of several party groups meant he could not depend on a firm majority in Parliament.

Hopes For National Union

"I appealed with a program of urgency for a national union or at least for the largest majority possible so as to form the government France needs in the face of the difficulties surrounding her," he said. "One day, I hope soon, a national union will come."

It was the seventh time that Bidault had been asked to form a government since he became prominent in French politics after World War II. He has been premier twice during that period.

Children Get Sight As Christmas Gift

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—Two children cried with delight today because they could see.

They looked with wonder at their Christmas toys.

They told doctors, who removed bandages, that they could see trees outside the hospital windows.

The children, Ignacio Rodelo, 13, and his sister, Emma, 12, of Tecate, Mex., had been almost totally blind since birth. They had been able to distinguish light but not objects.

They were operated on, for removal of cataracts, Christmas Eve at San Diego's Mercy Hospital.

Korean Capital Has Raid Alert

SEOUL, Wednesday, Dec. 31 (AP)—The South Korean capital of Seoul blacked out for 40 minutes Tuesday night and Allied antiaircraft guns on the Western Front roared into action when two unidentified planes flew over but dropped no bombs.

Radar screens picked out the slow-moving craft as they penetrated south of the battle line, appeared briefly over Seoul then disappeared to the northeast.

Although the U. S. Fifth Air Force said the planes could not definitely be identified as hostile, reports from the West-Central Front said antiaircraft guns fired at them.

Only last Thursday what the Air Force described as the "largest MIG jet force seen in months" swept far south to near the battle line. This force, whose numbers were not announced, reached to about 40 miles north of Seoul before it was driven off by Allied Sabre jets.

Meantime a Communist propaganda broadcast beamed to Allied troops on the frigid Central Front Tuesday night declared the Reds would launch a "general offensive" on Sunday. The broadcast was made by a woman.

Red Persecution Of Oriental Rite Assailed By Pope

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 30 (AP)—Pope Pius XII, in an encyclical letter released today, assailed Commmunist persecution of the clergy and members of the Oriental rite of the Roman Catholic Church, many of whom have been dispersed, jailed or exiled to Siberia since World War II.

The encyclical was entitled "Orientales Ecclesias" (Oriental churches), from the first two words of the original Latin text. It was specifically addressed to the hierarchy and clergy of the Oriental rite.

But the Pope's words clearly assailed persecutions of both the Latin and Oriental rites of the Roman Catholic church in Communist-ruled countries. The Pope is the supreme religious authority of both branches.

Total Catholics of both rites in Iron Curtain countries are set at about 50 million. About 10 million of these—according to prewar statistics—are of the Oriental rite.

Distinguishing characteristics between the Latin and Oriental rites of the Roman churches are ritualistic. Priests in the Oriental rite may marry, but this practice has declined in recent years. Services of the Oriental rite in most areas are in Greek, but Latin also is used.

Most of the Oriental-rite Catholics in Europe before the war were in the Eastern Ukraine, where they numbered more than five million. About 3½ million lived in Romania. The rest were scattered through Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Hungary.

Since the end of the war, however, many of these, along with Latin-rite Catholics, have been uprooted, their churches closed, their priests jailed.

5 Children Die In Fire

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP)—Five children ranging in age from one to nine were burned to death last night when fire destroyed their home.

The Negro parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spencer, were away from home at the time.

Hood To Be Butler Aide

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Sen. John M. Butler (R-Md) today named Edwin M. Hood of Baltimore to be his administrative assistant.

Former Government Physicist Indicted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — A federal grand jury at Richmond, Va., today indicted Jerome Mayo Greenberg, former government physicist, on charges that he falsely denied membership in the Communist Party.

The indictment was announced here by Atty. Gen. McGranery.

He said the false statement charge was based on denials of Communist membership made by Greenberg during an interview with the FBI on Dec. 15, 1945, at Norfolk, Va.

Greenberg at the time was employed as a physicist in the laboratories of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va.

Ship Used By Byrd Runs Aground, Burns

YARMOUTH, N. S., Dec. 30 (AP)—The City of New York, a sturdy wooden-hulled coastal vessel which served as Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd's flagship on his first Antarctic voyage in 1930, ran aground and burned off Yarmouth Harbor today.

Port officials feared the 391-ton three-master schooner might be a total loss. Her crew of six was taken off by a patrol boat.

The schooner was displayed at the World's Fair in Chicago.

Alleged Top Criminal Seized For Deportation

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30 (AP) — Carlos Marcello, described as one of the nation's worst criminals, was arrested today for deportation as an undesirable. He was released on $5,000 bond pending an Immigration Service hearing.

The 42-year-old immigrant from Tunis, in North Africa, declined to discuss his arrest.

"I don't have anything to say," he said. "This is just another lawsuit. See my lawyer."

Ike To Take Holiday

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower will spend New Year's Day at home, it was announced today. His Commodore Hotel offices will be closed.

15 Persons Hurt In Train Wreck

FT. SMITH, Ark., Dec. 30 (AP)—A Frisco passenger train and a Kansas City Southern freight train collided seven miles south of here just across the state line in Oklahoma this afternoon.

No one was killed in the wreck. At least 15 persons injured in the collision were treated at Sparks Memorial Hospital here.

Engineer G. B. Neal of the freight locomotive, which was pulling eight cars, said a mixup in the schedules of the two trains apparently caused the wreck. He said the passenger train was 20 minutes off its schedule, and that his freight train was running 30 minutes late.

Neal said the freight was rounding a curve when "we looked up and there was that passenger train right on us." He said that neither train had time to stop.

Strange Accident

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP) — The famous Tower Bridge over the Thames suddenly began opening tonight with a passenger bus astride its two lifting sections.

Ten persons were injured slightly when thrown into a heap at the front of the bus as it slid safely to the far side of the bridge.

Army Engineers Criticized By Alaska Housing Probers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—A House committee charged today that the multi-million-dollar Alaskan military housing program has been "marked by trial and error and considerable lack of expert knowledge."

In a knuckle-rapping report, congressional investigators largely blamed the Corps of Army Engineers, criticizing its "easy going attitude" toward construction defects.

The report was filed by a special subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations. Chairman Holifield (D-Calif), conducted hearings in Alaska this fall.

The committee noted "an uneven approach to the austerity goal in Alaskan housing," citing unsuitable design, materials and construction methods "to meet economy demands and military needs."

The report criticizes the Alaska district of the Army Engineers for "serious weakness in contract administration," including lax supervision and inspection of contractor performance.

The total postwar construction program for the territory was estimated to exceed one billion dollars, with the military housing program amounting to approximately 212 million.

Suspected Red Hi-Jacks Airliner But His Freedom Bid Fails

Two Killed Before China Nationalist Planes Force Craft To Land

MANILA, Wednesday, Dec. 31 (AP)—The pilot and one passenger aboard a hi-jacked Philippine Air Lines plane were shot and killed in the sky Tuesday as an armed Chinese tried to force the crew to fly it to Red China.

Chinese Nationalist fighter planes intercepted the airliner over Chinese Nationalist Quemoy Island and forced it to land, the airline announced.

The gunman's goal was said to be the Chinese Red port of Amoy, 15 miles north of Quemoy.

(The Philippine Air Lines office in San Francisco said the armed passenger was Ang Cho Kio, who also went under the name of Philip Ang.

(The San Francisco PAL office said the man wounded a girl friend in Manila Dec. 12 because she wouldn't marry him and was wanted by Philippines immigration authorities for questioning.)

Few details were available on the strange incident.

There was immediate speculation that the armed passenger may have been a fugitive Communist leader who escaped a Philippine roundup of Chinese and other Reds.

Whether the armed passenger was overpowered and killed or another passenger fell victim to his gun was not clear.

The seven passengers included two American employes of the U. S. State Department. The plane also carried a crew of three.

The plane had been listed as missing for hours.

The DC-3 transport had taken off Tuesday morning from Laoag on Northwestern Luzon for Aparri, 100 miles to the east en route to Manila. When it failed to appear at Aparri a search was launched.

According to fragmentary information received by PAL here, Chinese Nationalist fighters forced the plane down because it was unidentified and not on a regular flight plan.

Gls In Korea Resent Rotation Slowdown

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Wednesday, Dec. 31 (AP)—News of the latest slowdown in the U. S. armed forces rotation system was greeted by some soldiers on this front with gloomy comments.

"No one knows any more when he will have enough points to go home," said Pfc. Alma Blair of Preston, O.

"This business of upping rotation points is getting to be a habit. "They've done it before. Now they do it again. No one can be sure that it won't happen again."

Blair's reaction was fairly typical. He was referring to the announcement Tuesday by Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters that rear area troops in Korea will need 40 instead of 38 points to qualify for rotation home.

'52's Top Artists Named

HANCOCK, Me., Dec. 30 (AP)—The National Arts Foundation today selected Singer Kirsten Flagstad, Sculptor Carl Milles, Playwright Sean O'Casey and the Dancers of Bali as the outstanding artists of 1952.

Brain-Covering Operation Performed On Brodie Twin

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Rodney Dee Brodie, who was separated by surgery from his Siamese twin, underwent an operation today that provided a skin covering for most of his brain.

The new operation lasted two hours and 15 minutes.

It was undertaken to give the 15-month-old boy a start toward a normal life and to forestall a possible brain infection.

Rodney and his twin, Roger Lee, had been connected at the tops of their heads before they were divided Dec. 17 in a history-making, 12 hour and 40 minute operation. The separation left the youngsters without natural caps for their heads.

The other twin, Roger Lee, has been in a coma since the major operation Dec. 17. Physicians said his condition is too precarious for any plastic procedures at this time.

The plastic surgical procedure today gave Rodney a skin top that covered approximately 75 per cent of his brain. The cap was formed of a strip of skin from Rodney's body that had been made ready in preliminary plastic procedures.

The rest of the child's brain is protected by the natural membranous skin covering, called the dura mater. Thus, his brain now is entire protected by a natural shield.

Weather Forecast

A-Spy Makes It Clear He Doesn't Repent His Act

LONDON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Dr. Alan Nunn May, the West's first atom spy, said today he still thinks he did right in slipping A-bomb secrets to the Russians in World War II. He hopes to get another scientific job to serve Britain and "my fellow men."

Freed from prison yesterday after serving six years and eight months of a 10-year sentence, the 41-year old British scientist declared in a signed statement he had been "wholeheartedly concerned with securing victory over Nazi Germany and Japan and with the furtherance of the development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy in this country."

As at the time of his arrest in 1946, he gave no sign he was sorry he had spied for the Russians, who paid him off in dollars and whisky. He made it clear he does not repent his act.

After 36 hours of mystery as to his whereabouts, May's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ralph Nunn May, said he was resting in her cottage in Chalfont St. Peter, near London. She handed May's statement to a reporter.

Typewritten and signed "A. N. May" in pencil, it said:

"1. I don't wish to discuss the details of the action which led to my imprisonment. I myself think that I acted rightly and I believe many others think so too.

"To those who think otherwise, I would like to point out that I have suffered the punishment which was inflicted on me by the law and I hope I shall now be entitled to at least the consideration normally granted to released convicts: an opportunity to restart life.

"2. There is just one of many erroneous statements of fact which have been made about me which I should like to correct now. I was not convicted of treason, nor was the word used by the prosecution or judge at my trial and I certainly had no treasonable intentions.

"I was wholeheartedly concerned with securing victory over Nazi Germany and Japan and with the furtherance of the development of the peaceful uses of atomic energy in this country.

"3. My object now is to obtain as soon as possible an opportunity of doing useful scientific work in which I can be of some service to this country and to my fellow men.

"4. Now that my imprisonment is over, I can only wish for the same consideration and fair treatment which I received throughout the long period of my sentence from the prison officials and my fellow prisoners."

Former Government Physicist Indicted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — A federal grand jury at Richmond, Va., today indicted Jerome Mayo Greenberg, former government physicist, on charges that he falsely denied membership in the Communist Party.

The indictment was announced here by Atty. Gen. McGranery.

He said the false statement charge was based on denials of Communist membership made by Greenberg during an interview with the FBI on Dec. 15, 1945, at Norfolk, Va.

Greenberg at the time was employed as a physicist in the laboratories of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va.

Still Considers Durkin's Choice As 'Incredible'

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft talked with President-elect Eisenhower today and said he expected harmony between the White House and Congress although he still thought the general's appointment of Martin Durkin as labor secretary was "incredible."

Taft and three GOP senatorial colleagues conferred with Eisenhower for 2½ hours, largely on a prospective legislative program, but also on procedure for job appointments in the new administration.

Taft told newsmen he felt "a general understanding" had been reached for "adequate consultation of senators" with respect to new appointments.

Some Complaints, Taft Says

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts said Eisenhower "indicated a desire to cooperate with Congress in legislative matters, on appointments and all other matters."

To a question whether the general had not been cooperative in the past, Taft declared:

"Some senators have complained —some members of the House and Senate."

It was the first meeting between Eisenhower and Taft since the Ohioan hung the "incredible" tag on the appointment of Durkin.

Durkin, a Democrat and chief of the AFL Plumbers Union, had criticized the Taft-Hartley labor relations act, which Taft authored, and supported Gov. Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, against Eisenhower in the recent campaign.

Taft Stands By Remark

Taft told a news conference, "We didn't discuss Durkin but the method of appointments and the part of the Senate in consulting on appointments."

"Do you still consider the appointment of Mr. Durkin as incredible?" a newsman asked.

"Yes," Taft shot back sharply.

Taft was asked whether the appointment of Durkin might have been "headed off" if there had been a conference such as today's in advance.

"I think so," he replied. "It might have and it might not have."

Ship Used By Byrd Runs Aground, Burns

YARMOUTH, N. S., Dec. 30 (AP)—The City of New York, a sturdy wooden-hulled coastal vessel which served as Rear Adm. Richard E. Byrd's flagship on his first Antarctic voyage in 1930, ran aground and burned off Yarmouth Harbor today.

Port officials feared the 391-ton three-master schooner might be a total loss. Her crew of six was taken off by a patrol boat.

The schooner was displayed at the World's Fair in Chicago.

Alleged Top Criminal Seized For Deportation

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30 (AP) — Carlos Marcello, described as one of the nation's worst criminals, was arrested today for deportation as an undesirable. He was released on $5,000 bond pending an Immigration Service hearing.

The 42-year-old immigrant from Tunis, in North Africa, declined to discuss his arrest.

"I don't have anything to say," he said. "This is just another lawsuit. See my lawyer."

Fate Of Atomic Spy Team May Eventually Rest In Hands Of Ike

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP) — The judge who doomed the Rosenberg atom spy team indicated today he may delay execution to give them time for a White House appeal.

This raised the possibility that the fate of Julius Rosenberg and his wife, Ethel, may eventually rest in the hands of President-elect Eisenhower, who takes office Jan. 20.

The Rosenbergs are scheduled to die the previous week — probably Jan. 15—in the Sing Sing Prison electric chair for conspiring to betray atom secrets to Russia. They are the first Americans ever so condemned in a civil court.

The approaching execution has aroused a storm of protest, spearheaded by the Communist party.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman said today he has been "hounded and pounded and vilified and pressured" for dooming the American-born husband and wife to death.

Big Steel Ration Assures Spring Building Speedup

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—The government announced today a record allocation of structural steel —1,692,000 tons—will be distributed to the nation's builders for the second quarter of 1953.

It is the biggest allocation made since the defense mobilization program began more than two years ago.

The Defense Production Administration said the new steel ration assures a speedup next spring in expansion of vital public services—highways, bridges, power, barges, railroad cars and locomotives.

The April-May-June structural steel ration, destined for both military and civilian users, is the first to be made on the basis of a full quarter's supply since the nationwide steel strike last summer.

Controls To Be Relaxed Jan. 1

It also may be the last allocation to civilian industry. Production officials have indicated they are considering dismantling the allocation machinery next June 30, except for the military and atomic programs.

A fairly broad relaxation of construction controls on New Year's Day already has been announced. This will remove the ban on erection of theaters, night clubs, amusement and recreational places and will liberalize allotments for most other types of building.

Today's allocation, announced by Acting DPA Administrator Ralph S. Trigg, assigns to the Defense Department and Atomic Energy Commission the full tonnages of steel they requested for work on atomic and military installations.

More Steel For Highways

It also provides what Trigg called "strong support" for the swiftly expanding electric power industry and for petroleum development.

The greatest increase was granted to the Bureau of Public Roads for street and highway construction. The bureau will have 185,000 tons to distribute among the states, as against 115,621 tons in the first quarter.

A special reserve of nearly 211,000 tons was earmarked to cover the relaxation of construction controls, under which thousands of builders will be permitted to use steel within specified limits without obtaining advance allocations from the government.

Ike To Take Holiday

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower will spend New Year's Day at home, it was announced today. His Commodore Hotel offices will be closed.

Will Not Name Those Making Loyalty Check

Charges Lodged Against Officials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — Angry House investigators today asked Secretary of State Acheson to testify tomorrow on what Rep. Frank Chelf (D-Ky) called the State Department's "colossal flop" in dealing with disloyal Americans in the United Nations.

Acheson announced he would accept the invitation to appear.

The request for Acheson to take the witness stand came right after the Cabinet officer rejected a demand that he disclose the names of State Department officials in charge of checking on the loyalty of American citizens on the U. N. payroll.

Acheson said he was acting "on instructions" from President Truman.

State Dept. Opens Probe

In other fast-breaking developments, the State Department announced to the House group:

1. That charges have been lodged against "four or five" State Department employes assigned to evaluate the loyalty of Americans employed by the U. N., and the department has started an investigation. No names were given.

2. That the Federal Bureau of Investigation, for the first time, will make full-scale inquiries into possible Communist backgrounds of all Americans employed in key U. N. posts.

Adrian Fisher, State Department legal adviser, said President Truman is now preparing an executive order providing for the FBI investigations. Only minor employes will be exempt. The order is expected tomorrow.

53 On FBI "Adverse List"

Testifying before the House judiciary subcommittee, Fisher said the President's order would provide that at any stage of the FBI checkups, U. N. Secretary General Trygve Lie may be given "derogatory information" about American employes "as a basis for suspension . . . pending a final determination" by U. S. loyalty boards.

Earlier, Deputy U. S. Atty. Gen. Ross Malone testified that the FBI had made adverse loyalty reports on 53 Americans employed on the U. N. staff. So far, only 27 have been fired.

The "adverse list" of 53 contained coded numbers, without names.

GIs In Korea Resent Rotation Slowdown

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Wednesday, Dec. 31 (AP)—News of the latest slowdown in the U. S. armed forces rotation system was greeted by some soldiers on this front with gloomy comments.

"No one knows any more when he will have enough points to go home," said Pfc. Alma Blair of Preston, O.

"This business of upping rotation points is getting to be a habit. "They've done it before. Now they do it again. No one can be sure that it won't happen again."

Blair's reaction was fairly typical. He was referring to the announcement Tuesday by Gen. Mark W. Clark's headquarters that rear area troops in Korea will need 40 instead of 38 points to qualify for rotation home.

Army Engineers Criticized By Alaska Housing Probers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—A House committee charged today that the multi-million-dollar Alaskan military housing program has been "marked by trial and error and considerable lack of expert knowledge."

In a knuckle-rapping report, congressional investigators largely blamed the Corps of Army Engineers, criticizing its "easy going attitude" toward construction defects.

The report was filed by a special subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations. Chairman Holifield (D-Calif), conducted hearings in Alaska this fall.

The committee noted "an uneven approach to the austerity goal in Alaskan housing," citing unsuitable design, materials and construction methods "to meet economy demands and military needs."

The report criticizes the Alaska district of the Army Engineers for "serious weakness in contract administration," including lax supervision and inspection of contractor performance.

The total postwar construction program for the territory was estimated to exceed one billion dollars, with the military housing program amounting to approximately 212 million.

Suspected Red Hi-Jacks Airliner But His Freedom Bid Fails

Two Killed Before China Nationalist Planes Force Craft To Land

MANILA, Wednesday, Dec. 31 (AP)—The pilot and one passenger aboard a hi-jacked Philippine Air Lines plane were shot and killed in the sky Tuesday as an armed Chinese tried to force the crew to fly it to Red China.

Chinese Nationalist fighter planes intercepted the airliner over Chinese Nationalist Quemoy Island and forced it to land, the airline announced.

The gunman's goal was said to be the Chinese Red port of Amoy, 15 miles north of Quemoy.

(The Philippine Air Lines office in San Francisco said the armed passenger was Ang Cho Kio, who also went under the name of Philip Ang.

(The San Francisco PAL office said the man wounded a girl friend in Manila Dec. 12 because she wouldn't marry him and was wanted by Philippines immigration authorities for questioning.)

Few details were available on the strange incident.

There was immediate speculation that the armed passenger may have been a fugitive Communist leader who escaped a Philippine roundup of Chinese and other Reds.

Whether the armed passenger was overpowered and killed or another passenger fell victim to his gun was not clear.

The seven passengers included two American employes of the U. S. State Department. The plane also carried a crew of three.

The plane had been listed as missing for hours.

The DC-3 transport had taken off Tuesday morning from Laoag on Northwestern Luzon for Aparri, 100 miles to the east en route to Manila. When it failed to appear at Aparri a search was launched.

According to fragmentary information received by PAL here, Chinese Nationalist fighters forced the plane down because it was unidentified and not on a regular flight plan.

Brain-Covering Operation Performed On Brodie Twin

CHICAGO, Dec. 30. (AP)—Rodney Dee Brodie, who was separated by surgery from his Siamese twin, underwent an operation today that provided a skin covering for most of his brain.

The new operation lasted two hours and 15 minutes.

It was undertaken to give the 15-month-old boy a start toward a normal life and to forestall a possible brain infection.

Rodney and his twin, Roger Lee, had been connected at the tops of their heads before they were divided Dec. 17 in a history-making, 12 hour and 40 minute operation. The separation left the youngsters without natural caps for their heads.

The other twin, Roger Lee, has been in a coma since the major operation Dec. 17. Physicians said his condition is too precarious for any plastic procedures at this time.

The plastic surgical procedure today gave Rodney a skin top that covered approximately 75 per cent of his brain. The cap was formed of a strip of skin from Rodney's body that had been made ready in preliminary plastic procedures.

The rest of the child's brain is protected by the natural membranous skin covering, called the dura mater. Thus, his brain now is entire protected by a natural shield.

Spies Captured Outside A-Bomb Training Base

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Spy suspects were caught just outside the secrecy curtain that hid preparations for the first atom bomb drop on Japan, the commander of the operation disclosed today.

But the officer, Col. Paul W. Tibbets of the Air Force, said he was sure they did not actually get inside or learn anything important.

And the wartime A-bomb intelligence chief, John Lansdale Jr. of Cleveland, said as far as he knew it never was determined that the men knew anything was going on or were really trying to get inside the training base at Wendover, Utah.

"We had several spy scares," Lansdale said.

Lansdale, a wartime colonel, was intelligence officer for the Manhattan District which developed the atom bomb for the Army.

The talk of spies was set off by remarks by Tibbets in an informal chat with Air Force officials and others here after the private first showing of a motion picture based largely on his experiences.

Tibbets, still only 37 years old, commanded the training operation and later piloted the bomb-carrying B-29 "Enola Gay" over Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945. He is now stationed at Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., in command of a group which tests new Air Force weapons.

Air Force Secretary Finletter asked Tibbets if the movie, "Above and Beyond," overdrew the security problem at Wendover, which was one of the most closely guarded spots in the world.

Tibbets replied that it was true to life and mentioned the arrests nearby.

Anti-Filibustering Campaign Planned

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — Three Senate Democrats announced tonight, after a strategy meeting with 10 colleagues, that they will lead a fight to abolish the "evil" of filibusters which often have blocked civil rights legislation.

Sen. Lehman (D-Lib-NY), the official spokesman, told a news conference the fight probably will start in opening minutes of the new Congress, which will convene Saturday.

Sens. Douglas (D-Ill) and Humphrey (D-Minn), co-sponsors of the closed door strategy huddle, said they would support the fight vigorously, and expected a lot of help from Republicans as well as other Democrats.

Ike Selects Morton For State Dept. Post

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—President-elect Eisenhower today chose Rep. Thurston Ballard Morton, Kentucky Republican, as an assistant secretary of state in the new administration.

The general also said he was naming Herman Phleger, San Francisco attorney, as legal advisor to John Foster Dulles, secretary of state-designate.

First Lynchless Year Recorded

TUSKEGEE, Ala., Dec. 30. (AP)—The United States went through 1952 without a death from mob violence, Tuskegee Institute reported today, giving the nation its first lynchless year ever recorded.

Despite a gradual decline in lynch-killings for the past decade, Tuskegee records show at least one mob death every year from 1951 back to 1882, when the famed Negro school started keeping its file.

But where the number of lynchings has fallen off finally to the zero point, Tuskegee's President F. D. Patterson said "other rather similar forms of violence and lawlessness have not declined."

"Indeed," he said in his annual report, "there appears to be too many cases of unnecessary brutality and killings by officers of the law of persons suspected or guilty of crimes; and a resurgence of the mob spirit as expressed in beatings, floggings, incendiarism, bombing and the like."

Teen-Age Gang Held For 25 Auto Thefts

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Police reported today they had rounded up a band of nine teenagers, including three girls, in solving a series of at least 25 percent automobile thefts.

Detective Capt. George J. Murphy said the gang would steal cars to run thrill races on nearby rural highways. They would steal at least two, he said, take them out into the country and race them until an engine burned out, gas was exhausted, or a tire blew.

The six boys were arrested Sunday night in Virginia after they wrecked a stolen car while trying to elude Arlington County police in a chase that reached 100 miles an hour.

The boys involved the girls under questioning. All nine of the youths live in Southwest Baltimore, and their ages range from 13 to 19.

Inspiring Christmas Story May Yet Have Happy Ending

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30 (AP)—An inspiring, if sad, Christmas story was that of Mrs. Jean Garrett, who had her baby even though she had been told it might cost her life.

Today it apepared the story may yet have a happy ending.

Mrs. Garrett, 27, wife of an aircraft worker and mother of three other children, is suffering from what has been diagnosed as Hodgkins disease, a cancerous malady which attacks the lymph glands.

She was told that having the baby would shorten her life, if she survived at all. Nonetheless, she decided that the anticipated child was entitled to its chance for life.

The baby, a boy, was delivered by Caesarean section the day after Christmas.

Mrs. Garrett withstood the operation well, and the baby was healthy. Hospital attendants said that both are gaining strength, and that today Mrs. Garrett got up and walked from her bed to a chair.

If her present progress continues, they added, she can go home in a few days. Her doctor said today that Mrs. Garrett has a chance to get well—that "in a couple of years she may be all right." Although Hodgkin's disease is generally fatal, the surgeon conceded that in Mrs. Barrett's case there may be some question concerning the diagnosis; further tests are being made.

Mother, Two Sons, Friend Found Slain

SEA CLIFF, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—Four persons—a young mother, her two small sons and a handsome family friend—were found shot to death in her home today.

The man friend, identified by police as Charles E. Weigold, Jr., 27, worked for his father, a wealthy Wall Street investment broker.

Nassau County police said he apparently shot Mrs. Florence Schoelkopf, 26, and her children to death and then turned a .22 caliber revolver on himself.

Police were unable immediately to offer a motive.

Farm Prices Decline 12 Per Cent In Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP) — Farm prices declined three per cent in December, ending the year 12 per cent below December, 1951, levels and raising the possibility that the incoming Eisenhower administration will have a farm problem on its hands.

In its regular monthly price report, the Agriculture Department said today that prices received by farmers had dipped for four consecutive months to put them at the lowest level in over two years.

The prices also were 15 per cent below the peak reached in February, 1951, and considerably below the parity price goal of farm programs inaugurated by the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

Sweepstakes Winner Is Cheated By Death

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—A year ago Harry A. Yool won $142,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes. A cautious man, he decided he would not spend any of the money until he had settled all tax claims against it.

The taxes came to about $80,000 and Yool, a 60-year-old retired electrician, paid them off as they became due.

The last installment of $20,000 was due yesterday.

Yool, who was in a hospital after an operation, died yesterday.

Friends said they believed he had about $62,000 left, but he did not get to spend a cent of his sweepstakes winnings.

Farm Prices Decline 12 Per Cent In Year

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30 (AP)—Farm prices declined three per cent in December, ending the year 12 per cent below December, 1951, levels and raising the possibility that the incoming Eisenhower administration will have a farm problem on its hands.

In its regular monthly price report, the Agriculture Department said today that prices received by farmers had dipped for four consecutive months to put them at the lowest level in over two years.

The prices also were 15 per cent below the peak reached in February, 1951, and considerably below the parity price goal of farm programs inaugurated by the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations.

Sweepstakes Winner Is Cheated By Death

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—A year ago Harry A. Yool won $142,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes. A cautious man, he decided he would not spend any of the money until he had settled all tax claims against it.

The taxes came to about $80,000 and Yool, a 60-year-old retired electrician, paid them off as they became due.

The last installment of $20,000 was due yesterday.

Yool, who was in a hospital after an operation, died yesterday.

Young Mother Second To Die In Road Mishap

A tragic Christmas Day auto accident near Hollsopple in Somerset County (Pa). has claimed the life of a second victim—the 25-year-old mother of three children.

Mrs. Betty King, RD 1, Hollsopple (Hyasota), died Saturday in Johnstown Memorial Hospital of a fractured skull. Her mother, Mrs. Annie Mae Housel, 48, wife of Oscar A. Housel, also of Hollsopple, was fatally hurt in the mishap.

The younger woman's husband, John King, 28, suffered injuries. His right leg was amputated at the ankle. He is in serious condition.

Mrs. Housel and Mr. and Mrs. King were standing on Route 601 beside King's car when Housel's northbound auto rammed into them.

State Police of the Somerset substation said they learned the Housels and Kings had been at a tavern in Jerome prior to the accident. While there they decided to go to the Kings' home and all left except King. When King did not arrive home after a time, Housel apparently set out to look for him.

King meanwhile had left Jerome, and during Housel's absence the women began walking toward Jerome. Enroute they met King, who was driving southward in his car. He stopped the auto in the roadway and got out to talk with his wife and mother-in-law.

While they were talking, Housel approached in his car from the north and struck the trio and King's car, police said. Mrs. King was knocked 32 feet along the road by the impact. Mrs. Housel and King also were knocked off their feet.

Housel told officers he does not know how the accident happened and that he did not notice the car and his family in the roadway until it was too late for him to stop. He had rounded a curve in the highway just before the crash.

Somerset County authorities said an inquest will be held later in the case — likely in Cambria County because that is where the victims died.

ASHTON FUNERAL

A funeral service for Mrs. Frances Ashton, 40, wife of James Ashton, 1014 Gay Street, who died Saturday in Sacred Heart Hospital, was held yesterday afternoon at the residence. Rev. George T. C. Bell, pastor of McKendree Methodist Church, officiated and interment was in Sumner Cemetery.

Prior to the service Mt. City Temple 136, IBPOE of W, conducted ritualistic rites at the home.

Pallbearers were Howard Wells, Ernest Bates, Walter Lowe, Walter Edwards, David Gaither and John Allen.

Worker Is Hurt In Fall At Mill

For the third time in 15 days, construction workers of the George F. Hazelwood Company have met with accidents, including a fatality, while at work on projects at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company.

Yesterday at about 2:30 p. m. Theodore Milton Schade, 58, of 408 Chestnut Street, city, was reported to have fallen three stories as he was traveling on an elevator carrying building material.

His condition at Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted about 3:50 p. m., is reported "good" by attaches. X-rays have been taken. He was treated at the Luke Plant dispensary, according to Dr. Robert W. Bess, plant physician, who said he received lacerations of the face and head and injuries to his feet.

He was brought to Memorial Hospital in an ambulance from the Roger Funeral Home, Keyser. Schade was reported to have been on the elevator when a crane swung around and struck it, causing it to fall to the ground.

On December 23, Clyde Watson, Chattanooga, Tenn., was taken to Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, in critical condition when he fell 60 feet into a huge tank. Hospital attaches reported his left hand and foot were "almost torn off" at the wrist and ankle. He also suffered a skull fracture and internal injuries.

However, his condition last night was reported by attaches as "fair". On December 15 another construction worker, Robert L. Brown, 32, of 11½ Fifth Street, Cumberland, was killed instantly when struck by a piece of channel iron which dropped from a crane at the Luke Plant.

Rapplier Club Plans For Dinner Reunion

The Rapplier Club, composed of members of the 1933 graduating class of LaSalle High School, will hold its sixteenth annual dinner-reunion Thursday at 6:30 p. m. in the Happy Hills Farm restaurant, 228 Baltimore Avenue.

James B. Reinhart, president, said officers will be elected. Marcus A. Naughton is secretary-treasurer.

New Year's Eve Party Planned By Neat Post

A New Year's Eve celebration will be held tonight by Alvin C. Neat Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at the Post Home in Lonaconing. Novelties will be distributed to all the guests.

Driving Tips Given By Police

Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn today released a list of "tips" for Cumberlanders who will welcome the arrival of 1953 at gay parties.

"If you are unfit to handle your car, have some non-tipsy friend drive you home," he said, adding:

"If no capable 'safe' driver is available, go home by cab or other public conveyance; make a cup of hot, black coffee the final drink of the party instead of another round of something stronger."

Flynn pointed out that coffee is a great "soberer-upper" and also helps overcome the fatigue resulting from late party hours.

"Regard all other drivers on the road as careless, giving them plenty of room. Thus you can avoid becoming the innocent victim of another's recklessness.

The police officials asked private and public party hosts to consider it a "duty" to see that their unsteady New Year's guests get home safely.

Three Fires Checked

City firemen were kept busy yesterday as they answered three calls.

At 7:28 p. m. South End checked a number of small fires which were burning in the vicinity of the Old Maryland Glass factory building being torn down.

Cause of the blaze at the building located near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad across from Springdale and West Laing Avenue were not known, firemen noted. No damage was reported.

Earlier in the afternoon at 2:28 o'clock the same company checked a grass fire along the old C&O Canal off Lexington Avenue as about 10 acres of ground were scorched.

No further damage was reported. Yesterday at 11:10 a. m. East Side firemen went to 321 Maryland Avenue and checked a flue fire. No damage was reported.

Highway Accidents

Traffic deaths in 1952 are approaching the peak of 1941, when 40,000 people were killed in automobile accidents. To meet this challenge, an expanding nation-wide program of accident prevention has enlisted the skills of high-ranking technicians from more than a dozen fields and safety leaders plan to bring pressure on the 44 state legislatures meeting in 1953 to strengthen regulatory laws.

Despite the increase in numbers of traffic fatalities, the death rate relative to the number of miles driven has shown a fairly steady decline. The rate for the first 10 months of this year, seven deaths per 100 million vehicle miles, was the lowest ever reported by the National Safety Council. Traffic accidents in 1951 caused 37,500 deaths. If the 1941 rate of 12 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles had still prevailed, 13,000 more persons would have lost their lives last year. The rate decline in recent years is chiefly the result of fewer pedestrian deaths in cities.

Rural highways at night are the most dangerous. Drivers below 25 and above 65 years of age have the most accidents. High speed on open roads is the principal factor in the severity of accidents; unevenness of speed in heavy traffic is an important factor in the mounting number of accidents. The driver who breaks away from the prevailing speed pattern is more dangerous than the one who maintains a steady pace and a safe distance between his car and the one ahead. Drinking and fatigue are recognized as major factors in traffic fatalities, but statistics to show their exact contribution to the death toll are lacking.

Spectacular pile-up accidents on superhighways have led to a re-evaluation of road design to eliminate hidden causes. Highway engineers are now introducing variations in surface and grade to break the monotony of driving on near-perfect roadways. The frequency of rear-end collisions and side-swiping on supposedly "accident proof" highways has led to the conclusion that drivers accustomed to 45 mile an hour speeds on inferior roads do not adjust readily to the 60 or 70 mile speeds of superhighways. They drive too close to the car ahead and do not allow enough time to stop or to pull out and pass a slower vehicle. To improve safety on existing multi-lane highways, experts recommend better signaling, driver education, and stricter law enforcement.

Today's automobile is considered a fairly safe vehicle. Research in car design now seeks new ways of lessening the impact in case of accident. The automotive industry is borrowing the results of crash-injury research in aeronautics, and camera studies have been made of stunt crashes to determine just what happens in a smash-up.

The least known factor in accident causation is the man behind the wheel. A group of 60 experts met at Washington in June to map out research needed in this field. Among the recommendations were study of the effects of alcohol, drugs, fatigue and lack of sleep on driver reactions; methods of selecting drivers for commercial transportation; driver training techniques; visual problems; skills of expert drivers compared with accident-prone drivers; and perception of situations when the driver adjusts to new situations, as from divided to undivided highways, from level to mountainous terrain, from one car to another.

Many safety leaders believe better laws and stricter enforcement would do more than anything else to reduce the traffic toll. The President's Highway Conference in October received reports that police supervision was far from adequate, particularly in rural areas, chiefly because of improper use of proved techniques in analyzing accident facts, lack of speed detection equipment, failure to take advantage of professional training facilities, insufficient personnel, and inadequate budgets. According to Franklin M. Kreml, director of Northwestern University's Traffic Institute, "Failure of most of our states to meet driver-licensing standards . . . is a real impediment to safety." The fact that certain states with heavy traffic have much better accident rates than others is attributed in the main to superior law enforcement. Last year's fatality rates ranged from three per 100 million vehicle miles in Rhode Island to 12.9 in two southwestern states—Arizona and New Mexico. If the traffic death rate for the country as a whole was no higher than the rates of the safest eastern states, the number of automobile fatalities would be cut in half.

Shy Justice Department

In his 1951 report to stockholders, Crawford Greenewalt, president of the duPont Company, noted that the company was a defendant in six anti-trust actions brought by the Department of Justice, and he added that in each case duPont had denied the charges.

Among these actions were two separate actions involving similar charges: conspiracy to fix prices in the paint and varnish field. All told nine corporations were named in the conspiracy.

When the suit was originally instituted in 1948 the Justice Department cut the announcement loose in Washington with considerable beating of drums.

In the interim period seven of the defendants named in the original action chose to plead "nolo contendere" to the charges and paid a standard fine. duPont and one other defendant elected to go to the mat with the government over the charges.

In one of the cases a jury returned a verdict of not guilty after 31 days of litigation. In the other case no trial date was set and affairs just limped along. Finally a Justice Department official called a duPont attorney in Washington to tell him—unofficially—that the government was dropping the case.

That was the last duPont heard from the Justice Department. Only after some correspondence with U. S. District Court aides in Pittsburgh, Pa., where the trial was to have been held, was duPont made officially aware that it was no longer a defendant.

Mr. Greenewalt shows great Christian forgiveness when he comments mildly that the government has suddenly lapsed into an attitude of shyness that isn't at all characteristic of it.

Anticipated Number Of Illnesses

Women live longer than men but they have more illnesses. This was brought out in a recently published report giving the results of a canvas of 35 Baltimore city blocks. The project kept several public health trained interviewers busy for five years, calling on each household at monthly intervals. The incidence of illnesses that disabled the individual for at least one day amounted to 545 per 1,000 for males and 753 per 1,000 females. Women encounter two to three more times more neuritis, neuralgia, nervousness, and diseases of the thyroid gland, liver, and gall bladder but men are more likely to develop peptic ulcer, bronchitis, hernia, and such heart conditions as coronary thrombosis and "leakage" as a result of a valvular defect.

A second group of investigators studied chronic disease in 2,289 spouses. The rate increased markedly with age so that the man or woman of 65 is four times more inclined to become ill than those in the 24-30 age group. The prevalence of hernia, tuberculosis, malignancies, and peptic ulcer is highest in husbands but for all other causes of illness the wives had higher rates. Married couples in general, however, are healthier than the unmarried. There is a striking excess of disabling illness among single women in all age groups from 25 on, compared with married women in the same age groups.

From the statistical standpoint, home accidents also favor wives. This might be expected because they spend so many hours in the home doing their household tasks. There were six injuries per 100 females to four per 100 males. The kitchen offered the greatest hazards. Most of the burns suffered occurred in reaching over boiling pots or tea kettles and from the spatter of hot grease. Cuts stemmed from handling knives and broken glass as well as from opening cans. There also were the usual mishaps from using unsafe ladders, stools, and chairs; faulty lighting and slipping on cluttered floors were other factors.

February is conceded to be a bad month for illnesses. This was demonstrated in another public health survey in which an attempt was made to estimate the amount of disabling illness in the United States in an average month. February, 1949, was selected for the experiment and it was found that 4,569,000 persons between the ages of 14 and 64 were unable to carry on their usual activities. These figures did not include the 750,000 disabled individuals who were institutionalized. When the survey was repeated in September, 1950, the figure had dropped to 3,605,000. A study of the two surveys revealed that the number of chronic disabling cases was essentially the same. The difference was in the cases of illness of short duration such as respiratory infections, which were prone to occur in the winter months. In this group, the male of the species was more often the invalid.

PAINFUL TONGUE

L. O. writes: Does neuritis ever strike the tongue?

There are many causes of glossitis (painful tongue) and inflammation of a nerve is one. Trigeminal neuralgia, for example, may start in the tongue. Send a stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet on painful and burning tongue.

MINERAL OIL

A test in which radioactive iodine is injected and, by means of a Geiger counter, the amount that has settled (uptake) in the thyroid tissue is determined. This procedure is used also as a test for thyroid activity and in this respect is looked upon as a competitor of the basal metabolic test.

Mysterious "Lady In Red Hat"—Ruth Hagy of Philadelphia—Induced Eisenhower To Make First Public Statement On Availability For Presidency

WASHINGTON — It was just a year ago that the world was speculating as to whether one Dwight D. Eisenhower would or would not be a candidate for President. Just a year ago also his Republican managers were frantically pulling wires to have him announce publicly that he was a candidate.

Finally, it was just a year ago today, that a lady — then identified only as the "lady in a red hat" — induced Eisenhower to make a public statement of his availability.

It was 3 p. m. Paris time on the day before New Year's that she, the lady in a red hat, pulled up in a limousine in front of SHAPE. Ike's headquarters were almost deserted. Guards dozed, charwomen washed the corridors. The few functionaries still on duty rubbed their eyes that the great Eisenhower should take time off, when all Paris relaxed, to see this mystery woman.

She remained, however, for three hours. Only other caller during that time was Field Marshal Montgomery who stopped on his way home to England also to see whether Ike was or was not going to be the next President of the United States. Monty did not come away with the answer.

The Draft

Meanwhile the general and the lady in the red hat talked of many things. Finally, the general picked up a golf club and swung it nervously.

"But, Mrs. Hagy," he said, "I don't want to be President of the United States; and my wife doesn't want me to be, either. We want to enjoy a few years at the end of our lives."

"That is understandable," said the mystery lady, who actually was Ruth Hagy of Philadelphia, organizer of the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum. "But that is no answer. My boy and thousands like him have been called to Korea. They didn't want to go, either. His wife had many better ideas about what she preferred to have him do.

"But nobody asked him whether he wanted to go. He was only told that his country needed him—and he went.

"I'm afraid, sir, that your wishes are in the same category — and your wife's, too."

The general colored.

"I never thought of it like that," he said.

"Then you would not, good soldier that you are, refuse to answer a call to duty."

"I never have."

"Then say so publicly," the lady insisted. "Say so when you are asked. The people will then take care of the drafting."

"You know," concluded the general, after much further conversation, "almost 2,000 people have come to see me asking that I be President — either because they wanted me to save the Republican party or the Democratic party; or because they were for Truman or against him; or for labor or for business.

"But you are the first person who has come here to talk for the people — for the men, women and children in whom you so passionately believe. And I want you to know that you have made me see things your way better and clearer than any of the others. If I answer the call to duty — as you put it — the call will have to come from people like you, not from the politicians."

Six days later he announced that he would answer the call.

Ike's Church

General Eisenhower, who has never belonged to any one church or religious denomination, finally has decided to attend the National Presbyterian Church on Connecticut Avenue and N Street during his term as President.

Eisenhower's mother was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect vigorously opposed to war — which was the reason his mother never looked with approval on her son's military career. He did not join that or any other church.

During the war, however, he got to know Rev. Edward L. Elson, chaplain to the 21st Corps in the European Theater and who served as Eisenhower's representative to the German Protestant Church Consistory after Germany surrendered.

Rev. Elson has just announced that Eisenhower will worship at his church and is preparing a special private service for members of the Eisenhower family at 9:30 a. m. January 20, just before the inauguration.

The President's pew of the church has been occupied by Presidents Jackson, Pierce, Polk, Cleveland and Buchanan, while such distinguished cabinet members as Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Robert Lansing and John Wanamaker were members of the congregation.

One of the most fashionable churches in Washington, so many government people worship there that it is sometimes called "Church of the Government" instead of "Church of the Covenant."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The End Of An Era

It is possible at the end of 1952 to look at the New Deal in perspective, although an objective historical view remains distant. While the data applicable to New Deal domestic policies may be appraised with a fair degree of accuracy, the foreign policy is not yet sufficiently documented to disclose the truth.

While the personality and associations of Franklin D. Roosevelt loom large in the development of the New Deal philosophy, he was not the author of the process nor does the evidence indicate that he altogether grasped the application of United Front (in Europe, Front Populair) concepts to American life. Roosevelt thought in terms of political self-perpetuation and in that process he was joined by the most cynical public character of our times, Harry Hopkins. However, such thinkers as David Cushman Coyle, Stuart Chase, Felix Frankfurter, Rexford Guy Tugwell and other original New Dealers conceived of Roosevelt as a vehicle for a great experiment in socialization without altering the written word of the Constitution.

Thus while to many Americans the New Deal appeared to be a haphazard product of inexperience and to others, a heaven sent process for the redistribution of wealth, actually it was a revolutionary device for the socialization of the American economy with the consent of Congress but without its knowledge.

Roosevelt recognized in the efforts of his smart boys a method for remaining in office through personal popularity. They were smart in their ability to cook up plans palatable to Congress: they were excellent propagandists capable not only of utilizing his talents to the full in the expression of their ideas but of smearing all opposition so mercilessly that fine characters were assassinated.

Roosevelt achieved a personal popularity so unusual in this country that he was elected four times; yet, the people never quite realized that they were voting for the social revolution or that involved was United Front activity which paralleled similar efforts in other countries, all of which were directed from the Kremlin. I am confident that objective historians in the future will find, after a study of the documentation of the case, that Franklin D. Roosevelt had no understanding of the United Front or of the Russian use of it to infiltrate his administration and the institutions of our country.

The United Front was a device of Soviet policy to unite all "democratic" elements in a country into a vehicle for political action. Their assumption has been that the United Front would ultimately lead the way, first to a "People's Democracy," and then to a Communist revolution. Their program has succeeded in a number of countries; it failed in the United States for many reasons, not the least of which was the personal ambition of Roosevelt who regarded all support as merely personal to him.

The United Front moved into the United States during the year 1934, producing a large number of front organizations until 1939, when the Hitler-Stalin alliance caused many to review their personal attitudes and activities and to remove themselves from Communist relationships. Roosevelt, however, never actually broke with his Communist associates because they were useful to him. The Hiss case, the Whittaker Chambers book, "Witness," the records of the Dies Committee, the destruction of the Communist records of Americans in the armed services, the presence in the White House of Lauchlin Currie, David Niles and Michael Greenberg, the release of Earl Browder from imprisonment, and a thousand other items establish Roosevelt's willingness to continue to accept Communist aid as part of a great political adventure.

The political device which they skillfully developed to its greatest efficiency was the fragmenting of our people into militant racial, religious and occupational groups violently antagonistic to each other. Finding a fact, an event, even a minor occurrence, they fanned it into a public issue of major dimensions. The word "minorities," never before used in the United States in the sense of a subordinate fraction of our people, became an accepted political term, generally used and widely resented by those who included themselves among the minorities. Organizations were developed to protect these minorities, and these, through the channel of David Niles, had direct White House contacts.

The Communists hoped to attach these minority groups to themselves; Roosevelt, with political genius, co-opted them and made them the basis of his political power without breaking with the Communists.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — When Prime Minister Churchill of Britain visits America next month to discuss outstanding problems, the chances are nobody in official circles here will have the temerity to tell him that Britain's nonchalant and "soft" attitude toward Communist infiltration inside the British government can only serve to stiffen the attitude of Congress when increased economic aid to Britain comes up for consideration.

For the concern of many Americans is growing that Britain is either being duped or misled at high levels and that most of her newspapers are not alert to the damage being done the alliance of Western powers by Britain's negligence.

News dispatches have just told of the release from prison of Dr. Alan Nunn May, the first atom spy. He served only six years and eight months in prison, played the piano, read scientific books at will, and now goes forth free, absolutely unrepentant over his deed. He gave Russia vital samples of uranium used in making the first American atom bomb. A congressional committee reported last year that he and three other spies advanced the Soviet atomic program by at least 18 months. The other spies were Dr. Klaus Fuchs, another Briton, and Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, Americans who will be executed at Sing Sing on January 11 unless President Truman commutes their sentence.

Security Not Tightened

The treason by Dr. May, who made frequent trips during wartime to the University of Chicago's atomic laboratory, where he learned some of the atomic secrets, was exposed in connection with the disclosures about the Canadian spy ring in September 1945. Although the British claim that when he was caught there was no way of charging him formally with treason, which is punishable with death, no signs appear that the British government since has actually tightened up very much on security regulations. This is due in part to the success which the "left wing" has had in Britain in pooh-poohing the Communist menace, aided and abetted by a good deal of derision visited by American "left-wingers" and by certain sections of the American press which also have been duped into believing there is no danger to the national safety from the Communist menace inside our government. American editorials minimizing Communist activities in the United States Government are frequently quoted in Britain to combat those conservatives in Parliament who try to make an issue of it.

The British government, since the May case broke in 1945, has been caught with another failure that emphasizes its laxity. Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess, who were in the British diplomatic service here, were both known to be Communists. Yet MacLean was in charge of the so-called American desk in the British Foreign Office, where he had access to all that Secretary Acheson was telling the British government confidentially at the same time that important negotiations were being conducted with the Russian government, and Guy Burgess was a secretary at the Far Eastern desk of the British Foreign Office.

To this day the British have never made a clean breast of the MacLean-Burgess affair, endeavoring instead to soft-pedal it and give the impression that the two men were of bad character, anyway. But this does not clear up at all why MacLean not only held for a long time an important post in the London government but why, while he was at the British embassy here, he was permitted to act as secretary of the Combined Policy Committee—an international committee composed of representatives of Canada, Britain and the United States—concerned with atomic affairs. He had a pass, good day and night, into the offices of the Atomic Energy Commission of the United States. He was "cleared" by the British government and hence immune from American vigilance.

With all this background, Mr. Churchill is nevertheless believed to be prepared to ask that more atomic information be exchanged between Britain and the United States. Congress would have to amend the present law to give Britain more data than she now gets.

Communists Get Brazen

Meanwhile, Moscow is playing a brazen game. Confident that neither the British nor the American government will do anything to counteract and expose their activities, the Communists have formed committees both in England and in America to conduct public propaganda to save the Rosenbergs from the electric chair on January 11. Many innocent Americans have joined the committees.

The Daily Worker in London and The Daily Worker—in New York have carried on their first pages in recent weeks articles with big headlines urging that the movement to free the Rosenbergs be accelerated. Just why Communist newspapers in London and New York should be so solicitous about two American citizens accused of espionage and not be concerned with the hundreds of other persons accused of capital crimes is so transparently a Communist goverment tactic that one wonders why the American government is so strangely indifferent to the campaign. Is it possible that Mr. Truman really intends to commute the sentence, thus removing the death penalty for all practical purposes in America from any future acts of treason? The purpose of punishment is to deter others—to set an example of what will happen to those who commit similar crimes.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Big Business, Big Politics

NEW YORK

Maybe it is a bit early to be worrying about the end of the national honeymoon. None the less, it is pretty plain that bad trouble is already building up for President-elect Eisenhower. Anyone can see it who spends much time around the American - government - in - embryo that has its capital here in New York.

The surface signs are simple enough. Take, for example, the State of New Jersey. Both New Jersey's governor, Alfred Driscoll, and New Jersey's senior senator, H. Alexander Smith, were for Eisenhower before Chicago. Neither was warned in advance of the choice of a New Jersey business leader, Robert Ten Broeck Stevens, as the new secretary of the Army. Gov. Driscoll, who might have liked a cabinet place himself, was not much pleased.

On top of this, another major appointment from New Jersey is now quite probable. The young and brilliant banker, Douglas Dillon, of Dillion, Read & Company, is reported to be tentatively slated for the ambassadorship to Paris. It will be an admirable appointment if it goes through. Yet Dillion has never been a Driscoll supporter. Driscoll heard about the probable appointment of Dillon only at second half. The government's already frayed temper was far from improved.

Again in Pennsylvania, neither Gov. Fine nor Sen. James Duff was notified of the prospective selection of Harold Stassen as Mutual Security administrator. Fine and Duff both regard Stassen as a carpet-bagger in Pennsylvania politics. Neither has been appeased by the appointment of one other Pennsylvanian to a minor post. These two notorious feudists of Pennsylvania politics have now been almost reconciled by their common exasperation.

In other words, the same sort of thing that caused Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio to explode in public is also bringing many of President - elect Eisenhower's oldest political admirers to a high, rolling boil. Most Republican politicians think the trouble comes from "Tom Dewey taking over." As evidence for this theory, they cite the high confidence President-elect Eisenhower has shown in the former Dewey man and attorney general-designate, Herbert Brownell.

The theory is, at best, only one-quarter true. President-elect Eisenhower and Gov. Dewey have seen one another no more than once since the election. There is little contact any longer between Brownell and the New York governor. In the past, no doubt, Brownell has been a high-powered political organizer. But at present, by any reasonable test, Brownell is not acting as a politician. He is acting as a lawyer-business man charged with staffing an unusually vast corporation.

The symbol of this important difference in approach is the job analysis of the 900-odd top federal posts, combined with elaborate dossiers of men qualified to fill these posts, that is now in constant use. This formidable catalogue was prepared by New York businessmen close to Brownell. According to those who should know, it is remarkably well done. Significantly, however, the dossiers include almost no men with practical political background, and, indeed, virtually exclude all but leading businessmen. Only the lesser jobs, below the top 900, are classed as available for normal patronage purposes.

Here, it seems, is the heart of the present trouble. The government is viewed as a gigantic business, which experienced businessmen are most likely to manage satisfactorily. The Republican politicians do not share this Eisenhower-Brownell view. They like big businessmen, but they like big businessmen in what they conceive to be the place of businessmen—at the heads of their businesses. They do not like businessmen in what they regard as the place of Republican politicians—at the head of the government, where President-elect Eisenhower is now putting in so man businessmen.

There are two things to be said about this trouble. First of all, there really seems to be no reason on earth for inflaming the politicians twice over, by failing to give them jobs, and by failing to warn them who will get the jobs.

Second, however, President-elect Eisenhower did not want to run in the first instance. He has no political debts to anyone. His only obligation is to put together the best administration that he can. He is taking a risk by forming a business administration instead of a political administration; but there are many reasons to think this wholly novel experiment is overdue.

The big businessmen are, after all ,the most powerful single class in the country. If anyone needs to understand the American political process, they need to. Until now, they have been unhealthily divorced from practical politics; and this divorce has limited their political understanding. Now they are being brought in. They are being made responsible. If they wisely grasp this great opportunity, it can become a major turning point.

Highway Accidents

Traffic deaths in 1952 are approaching the peak of 1941, when 40,000 people were killed in automobile accidents. To meet this challenge, an expanding nation-wide program of accident prevention has enlisted the skills of high-ranking technicians from more than a dozen fields and safety leaders plan to bring pressure on the 44 state legislatures meeting in 1953 to strengthen regulatory laws.

Despite the increase in numbers of traffic fatalities, the death rate relative to the number of miles driven has shown a fairly steady decline. The rate for the first 10 months of this year, seven deaths per 100 million vehicle miles, was the lowest ever reported by the National Safety Council. Traffic accidents in 1951 caused 37,500 deaths. If the 1941 rate of 12 deaths per 100 million vehicle miles had still prevailed, 13,000 more persons would have lost their lives last year. The rate decline in recent years is chiefly the result of fewer pedestrian deaths in cities.

Rural highways at night are the most dangerous. Drivers below 25 and above 65 years of age have the most accidents. High speed on open roads is the principal factor in the severity of accidents; unevenness of speed in heavy traffic is an important factor in the mounting number of accidents. The driver who breaks away from the prevailing speed pattern is more dangerous than the one who maintains a steady pace and a safe distance between his car and the one ahead. Drinking and fatigue are recognized as major factors in traffic fatalities, but statistics to show their exact contribution to the death toll are lacking.

Spectacular pile-up accidents on superhighways have led to a re-evaluation of road design to eliminate hidden causes. Highway engineers are now introducing variations in surface and grade to break the monotony of driving on near-perfect roadways. The frequency of rear-end collisions and side-swiping on supposedly "accident proof" highways has led to the conclusion that drivers accustomed to 45 mile an hour speeds on inferior roads do not adjust readily to the 60 or 70 mile speeds of superhighways. They drive too close to the car ahead and do not allow enough time to stop or to pull out and pass a slower vehicle. To improve safety on existing multi-lane highways, experts recommend better signaling, driver education, and stricter law enforcement.

Today's automobile is considered a fairly safe vehicle. Research in car design now seeks new ways of lessening the impact in case of accident. The automotive industry is borrowing the results of crash-injury research in aeronautics, and camera studies have been made of stunt crashes to determine just what happens in a smash-up.

The least known factor in accident causation is the man behind the wheel. A group of 60 experts met at Washington in June to map out research needed in this field. Among the recommendations were study of the effects of alcohol, drugs, fatigue and lack of sleep on driver reactions; methods of selecting drivers for commercial transportation; driver training techniques; visual problems; skills of expert drivers compared with accident-prone drivers; and perception of situations when the driver adjusts to new situations, as from divided to undivided highways, from level to mountainous terrain, from one car to another.

Many safety leaders believe better laws and stricter enforcement would do more than anything else to reduce the traffic toll. The President's Highway Conference in October received reports that police supervision was far from adequate, particularly in rural areas, chiefly because of improper use of proved techniques in analyzing accident facts, lack of speed detection equipment, failure to take advantage of professional training facilities, insufficient personnel, and inadequate budgets. According to Franklin M. Kreml, director of Northwestern University's Traffic Institute, "Failure of most of our states to meet driver-licensing standards . . . is a real impediment to safety." The fact that certain states with heavy traffic have much better accident rates than others is attributed in the main to superior law enforcement. Last year's fatality rates ranged from three per 100 million vehicle miles in Rhode Island to 12.9 in two southwestern states—Arizona and New Mexico. If the traffic death rate for the country as a whole was no higher than the rates of the safest eastern states, the number of automobile fatalities would be cut in half.

Shy Justice Department

In his 1951 report to stockholders, Crawford Greenewalt, president of the duPont Company, noted that the company was a defendant in six anti-trust actions brought by the Department of Justice, and he added that in each case duPont had denied the charges.

Among these actions were two separate actions involving similar charges: conspiracy to fix prices in the paint and varnish field. All told nine corporations were named in the conspiracy.

When the suit was originally instituted in 1948 the Justice Department cut the announcement loose in Washington with considerable beating of drums.

In the interim period seven of the defendants named in the original action chose to plead "nolo contendere" to the charges and paid a standard fine. duPont and one other defendant elected to go to the mat with the government over the charges.

In one of the cases a jury returned a verdict of not guilty after 31 days of litigation. In the other case no trial date was set and affairs just limped along. Finally a Justice Department official called a duPont attorney in Washington to tell him—unofficially—that the government was dropping the case.

That was the last duPont heard from the Justice Department. Only after some correspondence with U. S. District Court aides in Pittsburgh, Pa., where the trial was to have been held, was duPont made officially aware that it was no longer a defendant.

Mr. Greenewalt shows great Christian forgiveness when he comments mildly that the government has suddenly lapsed into an attitude of shyness that isn't at all characteristic of it.

To buy the bare necessities of life, a Russian worker must toil seven times as long as a worker in the U. S. Working for utopia can be very unrewarding, it seems.

How To Keep Well

Anticipated Number Of Illnesses

Women live longer than men but they have more illnesses. This was brought out in a recently published report giving the results of a canvas of 35 Baltimore city blocks. The project kept several public health trained interviewers busy for five years, calling on each household at monthly intervals. The incidence of illnesses that disabled the individual for at least one day amounted to 545 per 1,000 for males and 753 per 1,000 females. Women encounter two to three more times more neuritis, neuralgia, nervousness, and diseases of the thyroid gland, liver, and gall bladder but men are more likely to develop peptic ulcer, bronchitis, hernia, and such heart conditions as coronary thrombosis and "leakage" as a result of a valvular defect.

A second group of investigators studied chronic disease in 2,289 spouses. The rate increased markedly with age so that the man or woman of 65 is four times more inclined to become ill than those in the 24-30 age group. The prevalence of hernia, tuberculosis, malignancies, and peptic ulcer is highest in husbands but for all other causes of illness the wives had higher rates. Married couples in general, however, are healthier than the unmarried. There is a striking excess of disabling illness among single women in all age groups from 25 on, compared with married women in the same age groups.

From the statistical standpoint, home accidents also favor wives. This might be expected because they spend so many hours in the home doing their household tasks. There were six injuries per 100 females to four per 100 males. The kitchen offered the greatest hazards. Most of the burns suffered occurred in reaching over boiling pots or tea kettles and from the spatter of hot grease. Cuts stemmed from handling knives and broken glass as well as from opening cans. There also were the usual mishaps from using unsafe ladders, stools, and chairs; faulty lighting and slipping on cluttered floors were other factors.

February is conceded to be a bad month for illnesses. This was demonstrated in another public health survey in which an attempt was made to estimate the amount of disabling illness in the United States in an average month. February, 1949, was selected for the experiment and it was found that 4,569,000 persons between the ages of 14 and 64 were unable to carry on their usual activities. These figures did not include the 750,000 disabled individuals who were institutionalized. When the survey was repeated in September, 1950, the figure had dropped to 3,605,000. A study of the two surveys revealed that the number of chronic disabling cases was essentially the same. The difference was in the cases of illness of short duration such as respiratory infections, which were prone to occur in the winter months. In this group, the male of the species was more often the invalid.

PAINFUL TONGUE

L. O. writes: Does neuritis ever strike the tongue?

REPLY

There are many causes of glossitis (painful tongue) and inflammation of a nerve is one. Trigeminal neuralgia, for example, may start in the tongue. Send a stamped, self - addressed envelope for leaflet on painful and burning tongue.

MINERAL OIL

T. V. writes: Does taking mineral oil decrease the effect of vitamins?

REPLY

Large doses of mineral oil may affect the absorption of vitamins A and D, but not the usual doses.

SHOOTING PAIN

R. V. writes: I know that sciatic pain usually shoots from the back to the heel but I have pain that travels from the heel to the back. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY

Your pain may be caused by sciatica or by a disturbance of the heel.

HER BONES BURN

Mrs. T. writes: What causes burning bones? The bones all over my body, particularly in the skull, around the nose, and in the legs, burn and pain.

REPLY

This is too hot for me to handle. Distress of this type may result from parasthesia, which is of nervour origin. Paget's disease produces discomfort of this kind occasionally.

AFFINITY FOR THYROID

R. T. writes: What is the iodine uptake test?

REPLY

A test in which radioactive iodine is injected and, by means of a Geiger counter, the amount that has settled (uptake) in the thyroid tissue is determined. This procedure is used also as a test for thyroid activity and in this respect is looked upon as a competitor of the basal metabolic test.

Mysterious "Lady In Red Hat"—Ruth Hagy of Philadelphia—Induced Eisenhower To Make First Public Statement On Availability For Presidency

WASHINGTON — It was just a year ago that the world was speculating as to whether one Dwight D. Eisenhower would or would not be a candidate for President. Just a year ago also his Republican managers were frantically pulling wires to have him announce publicly that he was a candidate.

Finally, it was just a year ago today, that a lady — then identified only as the "lady in a red hat" — induced Eisenhower to make a public statement of his availability.

It was 3 p. m. Paris time on the day before New Year's that she, the lady in a red hat, pulled up in a limousine in front of SHAPE. Ike's headquarters were almost deserted. Guards dozed, charwomen washed the corridors. The few functionaries still on duty rubbed their eyes that the great Eisenhower should take time off, when all Paris relaxed, to see this mystery woman.

She remained, however, for three hours. Only other caller during that time was Field Marshal Montgomery who stopped on his way home to England also to see whether Ike was or was not going to be the next President of the United States. Monty did not come away with the answer.

The Draft

Meanwhile the general and the lady in the red hat talked of many things. Finally, the general picked up a golf club and swung it nervously.

"But, Mrs. Hagy," he said, "I don't want to be President of the United States; and my wife doesn't want me to be, either. We want to enjoy a few years at the end of our lives."

"That is understandable," said the mystery lady, who actually was Ruth Hagy of Philadelphia, organizer of the Philadelphia Bulletin Forum. "But that is no answer. My boy and thousands like him have been called to Korea. They didn't want to go, either. His wife had many better ideas about what she preferred to have him do.

"But nobody asked him whether he wanted to go. He was only told that his country needed him—and he went.

"I'm afraid, sir, that your wishes are in the same category — and your wife's, too."

The general colored.

"I never thought of it like that," he said.

"Then you would not, good soldier that you are, refuse to answer a call to duty."

"I never have."

"Then say so publicly," the lady insisted. "Say so when you are asked. The people will then take care of the drafting."

"You know," concluded the general, after much further conversation, "almost 2,000 people have come to see me asking that I be President — either because they wanted me to save the Republican party or the Democratic party; or because they were for Truman or against him; or for labor or for business.

"But you are the first person who has come here to talk for the people — for the men, women and children in whom you so passionately believe. And I want you to know that you have made me see things your way better and clearer than any of the others. If I answer the call to duty — as you put it — the call will have to come from people like you, not from the politicians."

Six days later he announced that he would answer the call.

Ike's Church

General Eisenhower, who has never belonged to any one church or religious denomination, finally has decided to attend the National Presbyterian Church on Connecticut Avenue and N Street during his term as President.

Eisenhower's mother was a member of Jehovah's Witnesses, a religious sect vigorously opposed to war — which was the reason his mother never looked with approval on her son's military career. He did not join that or any other church.

During the war, however, he got to know Rev. Edward L. Elson, chaplain to the 21st Corps in the European Theater and who served as Eisenhower's representative to the German Protestant Church Consistory after Germany surrendered.

Rev. Elson has just announced that Eisenhower will worship at his church and is preparing a special private service for members of the Eisenhower family at 9:30 a. m. January 20, just before the inauguration.

The President's pew of the church has been occupied by Presidents Jackson, Pierce, Polk, Cleveland and Buchanan, while such distinguished cabinet members as Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, Robert Lansing and John Wanamaker were members of the congregation.

One of the most fashionable churches in Washington, so many government people worship there that it is sometimes called "Church of the Government" instead of "Church of the Covenant."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The End Of An Era

It is possible at the end of 1952 to look at the New Deal in perspective, although an objective historical view remains distant. While the data applicable to New Deal domestic policies may be appraised with a fair degree of accuracy, the foreign policy is not yet sufficiently documented to disclose the truth.

While the personality and associations of Franklin D. Roosevelt loom large in the development of the New Deal philosophy, he was not the author of the process nor does the evidence indicate that he altogether grasped the application of United Front (in Europe, Front Populair) concepts to American life. Roosevelt thought in terms of political self-perpetuation and in that process he was joined by the most cynical public character of our times, Harry Hopkins. However, such thinkers as David Cushman Coyle, Stuart Chase, Felix Frankfurter, Rexford Guy Tugwell and other original New Dealers conceived of Roosevelt as a vehicle for a great experiment in socialization without altering the written word of the Constitution.

Thus while to many Americans the New Deal appeared to be a haphazard product of inexperience and to others, a heaven sent process for the redistribution of wealth, actually it was a revolutionary device for the socialization of the American economy with the consent of Congress but without its knowledge.

Roosevelt recognized in the efforts of his smart boys a method for remaining in office through personal popularity. They were smart in their ability to cook up plans palatable to Congress: they were excellent propagandists capable not only of utilizing his talents to the full in the expression of their ideas but of smearing all opposition so mercilessly that fine characters were assassinated.

Roosevelt achieved a personal popularity so unusual in this country that he was elected four times; yet, the people never quite realized that they were voting for the social revolution or that involved was United Front activity which paralleled similar efforts in other countries, all of which were directed from the Kremlin. I am confident that objective historians in the future will find, after a study of the documentation of the case, that Franklin D. Roosevelt had no understanding of the United Front or of the Russian use of it to infiltrate his administration and the institutions of our country.

The United Front was a device of Soviet policy to unite all "democratic" elements in a country into a vehicle for political action. Their assumption has been that the United Front would ultimately lead the way, first to a "People's Democracy," and then to a Communist revolution. Their program has succeeded in a number of countries; it failed in the United States for many reasons, not the least of which was the personal ambition of Roosevelt who regarded all support as merely personal to him.

The United Front moved into the United States during the year 1934, producing a large number of front organizations until 1939, when the Hitler-Stalin alliance caused many to review their personal attitudes and activities and to remove themselves from Communist relationships. Roosevelt, however, never actually broke with his Communist associates because they were useful to him. The Hiss case, the Whittaker Chambers book, "Witness," the records of the Dies Committee, the destruction of the Communist records of Americans in the armed services, the presence in the White House of Lauchlin Currie, David Niles and Michael Greenberg, the release of Earl Browder from imprisonment, and a thousand other items establish Roosevelt's willingness to continue to accept Communist aid as part of a great political adventure.

The political device which they skillfully developed to its greatest efficiency was the fragmenting of our people into militant racial, religious and occupational groups violently antagonistic to each other. Finding a fact, an event, even a minor occurrence, they fanned it into a public issue of major dimensions. The word "minorities," never before used in the United States in the sense of a subordinate fraction of our people, became an accepted political term, generally used and widely resented by those who included themselves among the minorities. Organizations were developed to protect these minorities, and these, through the channel of David Niles, had direct White House contacts.

The Communists hoped to attach these minority groups to themselves; Roosevelt, with political genius, co-opted them and made them the basis of his political power without breaking with the Communists.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — When Prime Minister Churchill of Britain visits America next month to discuss outstanding problems, the chances are nobody in official circles here will have the temerity to tell him that Britain's nonchalant and "soft" attitude toward Communist infiltration inside the British government can only serve to stiffen the attitude of Congress when increased economic aid to Britain comes up for consideration.

For the concern of many Americans is growing that Britain is either being duped or misled at high levels and that most of her newspapers are not alert to the damage being done the alliance of Western powers by Britain's negligence.

News dispatches have just told of the release from prison of Dr. Alan Nunn May, the first atom spy. He served only six years and eight months in prison, played the piano, read scientific books at will, and now goes forth free, absolutely unrepentant over his deed. He gave Russia vital samples of uranium used in making the first American atom bomb. A congressional committee reported last year that he and three other spies advanced the Soviet atomic program by at least 18 months. The other spies were Dr. Klaus Fuchs, another Briton, and Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, Americans who will be executed at Sing Sing on January 11 unless President Truman commutes their sentence.

Security Not Tightened

The treason by Dr. May, who made frequent trips during wartime to the University of Chicago's atomic laboratory, where he learned some of the atomic secrets, was exposed in connection with the disclosures about the Canadian spy ring in September 1945. Although the British claim that when he was caught there was no way of charging him formally with treason, which is punishable with death, no signs appear that the British government since has actually tightened up very much on security regulations. This is due in part to the success which the "left wing" has had in Britain in pooh-poohing the Communist menace, aided and abetted by a good deal of derision visited by American "left-wingers" and by certain sections of the American press which also have been duped into believing there is no danger to the national safety from the Communist menace inside our government. American editorials minimizing Communist activities in the United States Government are frequently quoted in Britain to combat those conservatives in Parliament who try to make an issue of it.

The British government, since the May case broke in 1945, has been caught with another failure that emphasizes its laxity. Donald MacLean and Guy Burgess, who were in the British diplomatic service here, were both known to be Communists. Yet MacLean was in charge of the so-called American desk in the British Foreign Office, where he had access to all that Secretary Acheson was telling the British government confidentially at the same time that important negotiations were being conducted with the Russian government, and Guy Burgess was a secretary at the Far Eastern desk of the British Foreign Office.

To this day the British have never made a clean breast of the MacLean-Burgess affair, endeavoring instead to soft-pedal it and give the impression that the two men were of bad character, anyway. But this does not clear up at all why MacLean not only held for a long time an important post in the London government but why, while he was at the British embassy here, he was permitted to act as secretary of the Combined Policy Committee—an international committee composed of representatives of Canada, Britain and the United States—concerned with atomic affairs. He had a pass, good day and night, into the offices of the Atomic Energy Commission of the United States. He was "cleared" by the British government and hence immune from American vigilance.

With all this background, Mr. Churchill is nevertheless believed to be prepared to ask that more atomic information be exchanged between Britain and the United States. Congress would have to amend the present law to give Britain more data than she now gets.

Communists Get Brazen

Meanwhile, Moscow is playing a brazen game. Confident that neither the British nor the American government will do anything to counteract and expose their activities, the Communists have formed committees both in England and in America to conduct public propaganda to save the Rosenbergs from the electric chair on January 11. Many innocent Americans have joined the committees.

The Daily Worker in London and The Daily Worker—in New York have carried on their first pages in recent weeks articles with big headlines urging that the movement to free the Rosenbergs be accelerated. Just why Communist newspapers in London and New York should be so solicitous about two American citizens accused of espionage and not be concerned with the hundreds of other persons accused of capital crimes is so transparently a Communist goverment tactic that one wonders why the American government is so strangely indifferent to the campaign. Is it possible that Mr. Truman really intends to commute the sentence, thus removing the death penalty for all practical purposes in America from any future acts of treason? The purpose of punishment is to deter others—to set an example of what will happen to those who commit similar crimes.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

Big Business, Big Politics

NEW YORK

Maybe it is a bit early to be worrying about the end of the national honeymoon. None the less, it is pretty plain that bad trouble is already building up for President-elect Eisenhower. Anyone can see it who spends much time around the American - government - in - embryo that has its capital here in New York.

The surface signs are simple enough. Take, for example, the State of New Jersey. Both New Jersey's governor, Alfred Driscoll, and New Jersey's senior senator, H. Alexander Smith, were for Eisenhower before Chicago. Neither was warned in advance of the choice of a New Jersey business leader, Robert Ten Broeck Stevens, as the new secretary of the Army. Gov. Driscoll, who might have liked a cabinet place himself, was not much pleased.

On top of this, another major appointment from New Jersey is now quite probable. The young and brilliant banker, Douglas Dillon, of Dillion, Read & Company, is reported to be tentatively slated for the ambassadorship to Paris. It will be an admirable appointment if it goes through. Yet Dillion has never been a Driscoll supporter. Driscoll heard about the probable appointment of Dillon only at second half. The government's already frayed temper was far from improved.

Again in Pennsylvania, neither Gov. Fine nor Sen. James Duff was notified of the prospective selection of Harold Stassen as Mutual Security administrator. Fine and Duff both regard Stassen as a carpet-bagger in Pennsylvania politics. Neither has been appeased by the appointment of one other Pennsylvanian to a minor post. These two notorious feudists of Pennsylvania politics have now been almost reconciled by their common exasperation.

In other words, the same sort of thing that caused Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio to explode in public is also bringing many of President - elect Eisenhower's oldest political admirers to a high, rolling boil. Most Republican politicians think the trouble comes from "Tom Dewey taking over." As evidence for this theory, they cite the high confidence President-elect Eisenhower has shown in the former Dewey man and attorney general-designate, Herbert Brownell.

The theory is, at best, only one-quarter true. President-elect Eisenhower and Gov. Dewey have seen one another no more than once since the election. There is little contact any longer between Brownell and the New York governor. In the past, no doubt, Brownell has been a high-powered political organizer. But at present, by any reasonable test, Brownell is not acting as a politician. He is acting as a lawyer-business man charged with staffing an unusually vast corporation.

The symbol of this important difference in approach is the job analysis of the 900-odd top federal posts, combined with elaborate dossiers of men qualified to fill these posts, that is now in constant use. This formidable catalogue was prepared by New York businessmen close to Brownell. According to those who should know, it is remarkably well done. Significantly, however, the dossiers include almost no men with practical political background, and, indeed, virtually exclude all but leading businessmen. Only the lesser jobs, below the top 900, are classed as available for normal patronage purposes.

Here, it seems, is the heart of the present trouble. The government is viewed as a gigantic business, which experienced businessmen are most likely to manage satisfactorily. The Republican politicians do not share this Eisenhower-Brownell view. They like big businessmen, but they like big businessmen in what they conceive to be the place of businessmen—at the heads of their businesses. They do not like businessmen in what they regard as the place of Republican politicians—at the head of the government, where President-elect Eisenhower is now putting in so man businessmen.

There are two things to be said about this trouble. First of all, there really seems to be no reason on earth for inflaming the politicians twice over, by failing to give them jobs, and by failing to warn them who will get the jobs.

Second, however, President-elect Eisenhower did not want to run in the first instance. He has no political debts to anyone. His only obligation is to put together the best administration that he can. He is taking a risk by forming a business administration instead of a political administration; but there are many reasons to think this wholly novel experiment is overdue.

The big businessmen are, after all ,the most powerful single class in the country. If anyone needs to understand the American political process, they need to. Until now, they have been unhealthily divorced from practical politics; and this divorce has limited their political understanding. Now they are being brought in. They are being made responsible. If they wisely grasp this great opportunity, it can become a major turning point.

Local Girl Wins High Award In Essay Contest

Mary Jane Howell, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Eugene Howell, 123 Pennsylvania Avenue, won fourth prize in the junior high school division of a national essay contest.

Subject of the essay, sponsored by Royal Typewriter Company, was "What I Think About My Home Town." The local eighth grade student of St. Mary's School has received a check for $20.

Excerpts of her essay include:

"A lot of people who live in Cumberland, Maryland, my home town, say that this is the dullest place they have ever seen, but to me it is the best place on earth.

"My town has a population of 39,483 and it ranks second among the cities of our state in size and industrial importance. Cumberland is located on U. S. Highway 40 at the 'Narrows' where Wills Creek empties into the Potomac River.

"Cumberland industries produce such products as Celanese cloth, beer, bread, cakes, coal, tile, glassware, brick, wood products, toys, mattresses, railroad equipment and several bus lines enter the city.

"My city has many historic homes and monuments. As Fort Cumberland, it was closely associated with George Washington's exploits, during the French and Indian War and was the eastern end of Braddock's Road, now U. S. Route 40. The first Baltimore and Ohio train entered Cumberland in 1842 and the first canal boat entered the town on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal eight years later.

"To keep us posted on news and world-wide happenings, we have three radio stations all with national affiliation. We also have two daily newspapers, one Sunday paper and two weekly papers.

"This is Cumberland, Maryland, my home town, the Queen City of the Alleghenies, of which I am very proud."

Miners To Get Retroactive Pay

Approximately 2,000 soft coal miners in District 16, United Mine Workers of America, will receive retroactive pay, amounting to nearly $14 per man, district officials noted.

The money represents back payments of 40 cents per day retroactive to October 1, the difference between a $1.50 daily wage boost first approved by the Wage Stabilization Board and the miners' original demand for $1.90.

President Truman later directed the WSB to tack on the extra 40 cents. The first back payments were made in the area last week.

Industry members of the board resigned recently in a body in protest against the belated approval of the extra 40 cents, which they said destroyed wage controls.

Coal operators, however, viewed the full pay increase differently. They joined the United Mine Workers Union in an appeal for the belated 40 cents after the nation's soft coal pits were closed by bitterly protesting coal miners.

The average wage for the soft coal miners now comes to almost $19 per day with the full $1.90 daily pay increase.

Cumberland Eagles Plan New Year Dance

Another local fraternal organization has set up plans for its New Year's Eve dance.

While prices for the celebration are running as high as $16 a couple, Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will charge its members and their friends $2.50 per couple.

Herman Myers, worthy secretary, said the first floor hall has been decorated and novelties made available.

Music for the anticipated 300 couples will be furnished by the Society Ramblers.

Draft Physicals Set For SS Registrants

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of Selective Service headquarters here, said yesterday that 30 registrants of Board 27 will report January 20 in Baltimore for pre-induction physical examinations

Jan. 1 Deadline For County Taxes

Unpaid 1952 county taxes become delinquent January 1, according to Ernest B. Treat, tax collector.

Duplicate bills will be mailed out to all those who have failed to pay their taxes and because of the extra work and expense the county charges a 50 cent fee for each delinquent taxpayer.

Treat said a large number of persons have been paying their taxes this month in order to deduct them from their 1952 federal income taxes.

The tax collectors office at the Court House will be open until 4 p. m. today. All tax bills paid for through the mail will be honored at two per cent interest if they are postmarked December 31, Treat said. Delinquent bills in January will have a two and one-half per cent interest rate. Two per cent interest is also being charged for unpaid state property taxes.

Bucy Is Promoted

Don J. S. Bucy, U. S. Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Bucy, 208 Union Street, has been promoted to sergeant.

He is serving at Camp Lejeune, N. C. He recently was home on a ten-day leave.

"Y" Board To Meet

The board of directors of Central YMCA will hold its annual dinner-meeting Monday, January 26, at 6 p. m., according to Winfield Adam, general secretary.

The results of the election of directors will be announced. The new board will meet after the dinner-meeting in the George Williams Room to organize for the year.

Local Girl Wins High Award In Essay Contest

Mary Jane Howell, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Eugene Howell, 123 Pennsylvania Avenue, won fourth prize in the junior high school division of a national essay contest.

Subject of the essay, sponsored by Royal Typewriter Company, was "What I Think About My Home Town." The local eighth grade student of St. Mary's School has received a check for $20.

Excerpts of her essay include:

"A lot of people who live in Cumberland, Maryland, my home town, say that this is the dullest place they have ever seen, but to me it is the best place on earth.

"My town has a population of 39,483 and it ranks second among the cities of our state in size and industrial importance. Cumberland is located on U. S. Highway 40 at the 'Narrows' where Wills Creek empties into the Potomac River.

"Cumberland industries produce such products as Celanese cloth, beer, bread, cakes, coal, tile, glassware, brick, wood products, toys, mattresses, railroad equipment and several bus lines enter the city.

"My city has many historic homes and monuments. As Fort Cumberland, it was closely associated with George Washington's exploits, during the French and Indian War and was the eastern end of Braddock's Road, now U. S. Route 40. The first Baltimore and Ohio train entered Cumberland in 1842 and the first canal boat entered the town on the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal eight years later.

"To keep us posted on news and world-wide happenings, we have three radio stations all with national affiliation. We also have two daily newspapers, one Sunday paper and two weekly papers.

"This is Cumberland, Maryland, my home town, the Queen City of the Alleghenies, of which I am very proud."

Miners To Get Retroactive Pay

Approximately 2,000 soft coal miners in District 16, United Mine Workers of America, will receive retroactive pay, amounting to nearly $14 per man, district officials noted.

The money represents back payments of 40 cents per day retroactive to October 1, the difference between a $1.50 daily wage boost first approved by the Wage Stabilization Board and the miners' original demand for $1.90.

President Truman later directed the WSB to tack on the extra 40 cents. The first back payments were made in the area last week.

Industry members of the board resigned recently in a body in protest against the belated approval of the extra 40 cents, which they said destroyed wage controls.

Coal operators, however, viewed the full pay increase differently. They joined the United Mine Workers Union in an appeal for the belated 40 cents after the nation's soft coal pits were closed by bitterly protesting coal miners.

The average wage for the soft coal miners now comes to almost $19 per day with the full $1.90 daily pay increase.

Cumberland Eagles Plan New Year Dance

Another local fraternal organization has set up plans for its New Year's Eve dance.

While prices for the celebration are running as high as $16 a couple, Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will charge its members and their friends $2.50 per couple.

Herman Myers, worthy secretary, said the first floor hall has been decorated and novelties made available.

Music for the anticipated 300 couples will be furnished by the Society Ramblers.

Draft Physicals Set For SS Registrants

P. Emmett Fahey, clerk coordinator of Selective Service headquarters here, said yesterday that 30 registrants of Board 27 will report January 20 in Baltimore for pre-induction physical examinations

Jan. 1 Deadline For County Taxes

Unpaid 1952 county taxes become delinquent January 1, according to Ernest B. Treat, tax collector.

Duplicate bills will be mailed out to all those who have failed to pay their taxes and because of the extra work and expense the county charges a 50 cent fee for each delinquent taxpayer.

Treat said a large number of persons have been paying their taxes this month in order to deduct them from their 1952 federal income taxes.

The tax collectors office at the Court House will be open until 4 p. m. today. All tax bills paid for through the mail will be honored at two per cent interest if they are postmarked December 31, Treat said. Delinquent bills in January will have a two and one-half per cent interest rate. Two per cent interest is also being charged for unpaid state property taxes.

Bucy Is Promoted

Don J. S. Bucy, U. S. Marine Corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar L. Bucy, 208 Union Street, has been promoted to sergeant.

He is serving at Camp Lejeune, N. C. He recently was home on a ten-day leave.

"Y" Board To Meet

The board of directors of Central YMCA will hold its annual dinner-meeting Monday, January 26, at 6 p. m., according to Winfield Adam, general secretary.

The results of the election of directors will be announced. The new board will meet after the dinner-meeting in the George Williams Room to organize for the year.

Fire Companies Seek More Financial Help FromCounty

A proposal whereby about $6,000 additional in county tax monies would be allotted to the various volunteer fire companies was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by the legislative committee of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

William A. Wilson, chairman of the committee, was the main spokesman. He told the commissioners the firemen would like legislation passed at the next session of the General Assembly to provide for the fire companies to receive 1.6 cents on each $100 of assessable property.

This would amount to approximately $21,600 on the current taxable basis of $133,000,000, Wilson said. The fire companies now receive a total of $15,600 with the larger units getting a bigger share.

The discussion with the county commissioners then delved into the method of disbursing these extra funds, if they are provided

The commissioners made no secret of the fact they were opposed to turning over the funds in bulk to the Firemen's Assocaition for its distribution to the varous companies. The board wants to retain control of these funds.

Wilson said the association feels the larger units should receive a bigger percentage of any additional funds because they are responsble for much larger territories and property values.

The commissioners informed Wilson and the other firemen officials they wished to study the proposal before coming to any decision.

Commissioner James Holmes brought up the matter of some of the fire companies being "in business in competition with private enterprse." Wlson said with fire engines costing from $12,000 upwards and other equipment being similarly expensive the fire companies must have other funds in order to operate.

Wilson also said that two years ago the firemen did not press action for an increased county fund allotment in the expectation of receiving equipment under the Civil Defense program. This has not materialized to the extent visualized at that time, he added.

The fact that the City of Cumberland has four fire companies which are supported by city taxes was also brought up by Commissioner James Orr and Commissioner Holmes. They contrasted this with the Hagerstown situation in which only the drivers are paid and the rest of the firefighters are volunteers.

The board was in agreement that some comparisons should be furnished between Washington County and Allegany County (as both are believed similar in economic ratings) so the board could arrive at some idea of costs of the two counties.

Commissioner Holmes commented that Cumberland furnishes about half of the tax monies for the county and still has its own four paid fire companies. Wilson said the volunteer fire companies not only have come to the aid of the city firemen but are committed to do so in an emergency. He also said Hagerstown firemen are paid by the Washington County board for calls they answer outside the city limits.

County Requests Added Mileage For Road Tax

A list of streets and roads in 18 districts of Allegany County has been prepared for submission to the State Roads Commission for inclusion in the bona fide county roads system.

J. Walker Chapman, roads supervisor, yesterday outlined to the commissioners the roadways which the county has worked for a number of years and should be included in the system.

A total of 24.59 miles is proposed for acceptance by the State Roads Commission. At $500 per mile in state gasoline tax monies the county would receive slightly over $12,000 if the entire list is acceptable.

Most of the roads are unpaved, but graded thoroughfares. Quite a few of the roads are in suburban areas and have been hardsurfaced for a long time. This is true of about one and one-half miles in LaVale. Streets in Cresaptown, Ellerslie, Corriganville, Eckhart, and Bowling Green which have been placed in the proposed group are also hardsurfaced.

In the Westernport area there are 2.02 miles proposed for the bona fide system. McCoole would get about two miles included. Vale Summit is listed for 1.17 miles and 2.40 miles of the Legislative Road which connects two roads in District 18 and 19 are in the program. This latter stretch is hardsurfaced.

Chapman has prepared a map of the proposed mileage which the county commissioners hope to have included in the bona fide roads system. The map and road listing will be submitted to the State Roads Commission prior to January 20 for action.

A survey is also scheduled next May by the State Roads Commission of the entire roads system of Allegany County. It is believed that a final decision will be made on the county's request following this survey.

Driver Takes Fire To The Firemen

A milk truck driver drove up to Central Fire Station the other day with a job for the blaze-battlers. His truck was on fire.

H. W. Smith of Ansonville, Pa., was bringing milk to a local dairy when Officer Joseph E. Stitcher noticed smoke pouring from a rear wheel and suggested he drive over to the fire station. Smith, who had been unaware the truck was afire, did just that.

Firemen said the blaze, which was caused by an overheated brake, caused no damage.

DeSpirito Smashes World's All-Time Riding Record

Tony Pilots 389th Winner At Tropical

Apprentice Scores Quadruple, Erasing Mark Set In 1906

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP) — Apprentice Jockey Tony DeSpirito smashed the world's all-time riding record today when he brought in his 389th winner of the year to erase a mark set in 1906.

The 18-year-old jockey from Lawrence, Mass., rode four winners on the nine-race program at Tropical Park to break the old record of 388 set by Walter Miller and tied in 1950 by Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker.

The icy-nerved boy scored his record-smashing victory on King's Quest in the ninth and final race to climax a spine-tingling stretch duel with Apprentice Robert L. Stevenson, riding Joe E. Lewis.

A crowd of 11,190 roared with excitement as the horses flashed past the finish line and burst into deafening applause when it was apparent that DeSpirito had established an all-time record.

King's Quest beat Joe E. Lewis to the wire by three fourths of a length and returned $4.80 to win.

Receives Silver Trophy

Racing Steward Marshall Cassidy, who also is assistant secretary of the Jockey Club, presented DeSpirito with a silver trophy after he set the new record.

He has mounts in five races tomorrow and will attempt to run his score even higher before the old year ends.

DeSpirito was a hot favorite in every race he rode.

After bringing in four winners Monday to run his score to 385, he went right to work in the first today aboard Classic Night, an even money favorite.

DeSpirito led all the way in the second on Potterac to win the mile and a furlong event by a length and a half. Potterac paid $5.70.

DeSpirito got his 387th winner on Dark Destroyer in the third race, a six-furlong sprint for two-year-olds. Dark Destroyer led all the way, scoring by three lengths and paid $5.70.

Ties Mark On Jantember

DeSpirito tied the record on Jantember in the fourth, a claiming race for two-year-olds at a mile and a sixteenth. Jantember, a bay filly, was never worse than third and moved up to take the lead on the far turn. She pulled away in the stretch to win by five lengths, and paid $6.

NEW WORLD'S RIDING CHAMP—Jockey Tony DeSpirito, who set a new world's riding record when he booted home his 389th winner of the year at Tropical Park, Florida, yesterday, beams as Joe Culmone crowns him the new champ. The old record of 388 by Walter Miller in 1906, was tied by Culmone and Willie Shoemaker in 1950.

Ashenfelter Is Named Winner Of Sullivan Trophy

Olympic Star Gets Top Amateur Award

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (INS) — Horace Ashenfelter, upset winner of the Olympic steeplechase, won the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy today as the amateur athlete who did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year.

Ashenfelter, the Newark, N. J., FBI man whose victory over Russia's favored Vladimir Kazantsez in the record time of 8:45.4 was one of the biggest thrills of the Olympic Games at Helsinki last summer, won out over nine other Olympic champs who figured in the final balloting.

The 29-year-old Penn State graduate was first choice on 154 of the 538 ballots sent out by the amateur Athletic Union, which annually awards the Sullivan Trophy. On a 5-3-1 count of first, second and third place votes, Ashenfelter amassed a total of 1,112 points to 882 for Maj. Sammy Lee, the army doctor from Pasadena, Calif., who retained his Olympic platform diving championship at Helsinki.

Middle-distance runner Mal Whitfield, weight-lifter John Davis, women's diving champion Mrs. Patricia Keller McCormick, and basketball ace Bob Kurland followed in that order in the voting.

Ashenfelter is the 14th track and field athlete, and the fourth distance runner, to win the Sullivan Award.

Nardico Fights LaMotta Tonight In Florida Ring

Former 160-Pound Champ Is Favorite

MIAMI, Dec. 30 (AP)—A possible shot at Archie Moore's light heavyweight boxing crown awaits the winner of the Jake Lamotta-Danny Nardico match in the Coral Gables Coliseum Wednesday night.

In New York, an International Boxing Club spokesman said the survivor would be in line for a title match, although Moore is under contract to make his first defense against Joey Maxim, from whom he lifted the crown last Dec. 17.

Nardico, 25-year-old Tampa, Fla. slugger, is currently the fifth ranking light heavyweight contender. Lamotta is rated ninth but the odds favor the former middleweight champ over Nardico by 7 to 5.

The fight will be carried over the CBS television network, starting at 10 p. m. EST.

Lamotta, who lost the middleweight crown to Sugar Ray Robinson in 1951, won verdicts over Irish Bob Murphy, Gene Hairston and Norman Hayes in his last three bouts.

Nardico has had nine fights this year, losing his first and last. He was beaten by Robert Villemain in January and last month lost to Heavyweight Dan Bucceroni in Madison Square Garden.

The fight will be scored by the point system.

This slugger turned in the highest batting average ever credited to a Cumberland player in the eight years this city was represented in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League. The Colts acquired him at a bargain price from Asheville of the Sally League because that club was overloaded with "class" players. He had a great season here in 1926 when Pat Ragan, former major league twirler, managed the locals. Figuring in 95 games, he pounded the pellet at a .374 clip and won the league batting title.

This speedy outfielder rapped 40 two-baggers and 15 triples, to lead the loop in those departments, clouted 20 home runs and pilfered 13 bases.

He was with the Phillies in 1927, 1928 and 1929 and with Brooklyn in 1931. In 1929 he batted .306 in 76 games with the Phils. Injuries, however, plagued him in the majors as he had the misfortune to crash into walls several times while chasing fly balls and was as unlucky as "Pete" Reiser in this respect. What's his name?

Five Major Bowl Contests Expected To Draw 360,000

USC, Alabama, Texas, Florida, Tech Favored

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP) — A threat of moisture other than that provided by tearful coaches threatened to dampen New Year's Day football bowl programs. But there was no indication there might be enough rain to diminish the size and enthusiasm of the crowds, expected to total more than 400,000.

Weather forecasts indicated possible rain Thursday at New Orleans, where Georgia Tech and Mississippi will clash before 82,000 spectators in the Sugar Bowl and at Dallas, where the Cotton Bowl game between Tennessee and Texas is expected to attract 75,000.

From Pasadena, Calif. came word that rain is due tomorrow but Thursday will bring clearing weather and the 103,000 spectators at the Rose Bowl will enjoy clear skies and comfortably cool temperatures.

"Partly cloudy and mild" was the forecast for both the Orange Bowl at Miami between Alabama and Syracuse and the Gator Bowl between Florida and Tulsa at Jacksonville.

In addition to these five major bowl games, expected to draw some 360,000 fans, three other bowl games Thursday will add about 45,000 to the attendance total. They are the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Mississippi Southern vs. College of the Pacific; Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz., San Diego Naval Training Center vs. 101st Airborne Division; and Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., East Texas State vs. Tennessee Tech.

As for the protests of the favorites, here's the list of prevailing point margins: Alabama 13 over Syracuse; Florida 7 over Tulsa; Southern California 7 over Wisconsin; Georgia Tech 8 over Mississippi; Texas 1½ over Tennessee.

Holiday Games Wreck Hopes Of Leading Quints

Kansas State Leads After LaSalle Loss

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—Holiday tournaments, the current rage in intersectional basketball tests, are having the same effect as the barnstorming tours they have almost replaced. They're wrecking the hopes of the high-ranking teams.

LaSalle of Philadelphia, winner of the National Invitation Tournament last spring and the No. 1 team in the first two Associated Press ranking polls, lost its first game in the New York Holiday Festival to DePaul of Chicago and lost its top ranking at the same time.

Illinois, beaten by Minnesota in regular Big Ten competition, dropped out of second place and Holy Cross, merely by remaining idle in preparation for the start of the Dixie Classic, skidded down two notches from its former fourth place. Louisiana State and North Carolina State fell clear out of the top ten.

U. S. Women Golfers Offered $100,000 In 25 Events In 1953

MIAMI BEACH, Dec. 30 (AP) — America's women golfers will be shooting for more than $100,000 in prize money—a new record—when they open the 1953 campaign next month in Tampa.

Ladies PGA Tournament Director Fred Corcoran reported today that 25 events have been scheduled for the women pros during the year, four more than in 1952 when total prize money reached a new high of $85,000.

The winter tour will open with the Tampa Open, oldest fixture on the women's PGA schedule, Jan. 15-18. Prize money has been hiked from $3,500 to $5,000. Women's Open Champ Louise Suggs, Carrollton, Ga., will defend her title at Tampa.

Top money winner during the 1952 campaign was Betsy Rawls, Austin, Tex. She won seven tournaments and tied for first in another to capture $14,505 in purses.

DeSpirito Smashes World's All-Time Riding Record

Tony Pilots 389th Winner At Tropical

Apprentice Scores Quadruple, Erasing Mark Set In 1906

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP) — Apprentice Jockey Tony DeSpirito smashed the world's all-time riding record today when he brought in his 389th winner of the year to erase a mark set in 1906.

The 18-year-old jockey from Lawrence, Mass., rode four winners on the nine-race program at Tropical Park to break the old record of 388 set by Walter Miller and tied in 1950 by Joe Culmone and Willie Shoemaker.

The icy-nerved boy scored his record-smashing victory on King's Quest in the ninth and final race to climax a spine-tingling stretch duel with Apprentice Robert L. Stevenson, riding Joe E. Lewis.

A crowd of 11,190 roared with excitement as the horses flashed past the finish line and burst into deafening applause when it was apparent that DeSpirito had established an all-time record.

King's Quest beat Joe E. Lewis to the wire by three fourths of a length and returned $4.80 to win.

Receives Silver Trophy

Racing Steward Marshall Cassidy, who also is assistant secretary of the Jockey Club, presented DeSpirito with a silver trophy after he set the new record.

He has mounts in five races tomorrow and will attempt to run his score even higher before the old year ends.

DeSpirito was a hot favorite in every race he rode.

After bringing in four winners Monday to run his score to 385, he went right to work in the first today aboard Classic Night, an even money favorite.

DeSpirito led all the way in the second on Potterac to win the mile and a furlong event by a length and a half. Potterac paid $5.70.

DeSpirito got his 387th winner on Dark Destroyer in the third race, a six-furlong sprint for two-year-olds. Dark Destroyer led all the way, scoring by three lengths and paid $5.70.

Ties Mark On Jantember

DeSpirito tied the record on Jantember in the fourth, a claiming race for two-year-olds at a mile and a sixteenth. Jantember, a bay filly, was never worse than third and moved up to take the lead on the far turn. She pulled away in the stretch to win by five lengths, and paid $6.

NEW WORLD'S RIDING CHAMP—Jockey Tony DeSpirito, who set a new world's riding record when he booted home his 389th winner of the year at Tropical Park, Florida, yesterday, beams as Joe Culmone crowns him the new champ. The old record of 388 by Walter Miller in 1906, was tied by Culmone and Willie Shoemaker in 1950.

Ashenfelter Is Named Winner Of Sullivan Trophy

Olympic Star Gets Top Amateur Award

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (INS) — Horace Ashenfelter, upset winner of the Olympic steeplechase, won the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy today as the amateur athlete who did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year.

Ashenfelter, the Newark, N. J., FBI man whose victory over Russia's favored Vladimir Kazantsez in the record time of 8:45.4 was one of the biggest thrills of the Olympic Games at Helsinki last summer, won out over nine other Olympic champs who figured in the final balloting.

The 29-year-old Penn State graduate was first choice on 154 of the 538 ballots sent out by the amateur Athletic Union, which annually awards the Sullivan Trophy. On a 5-3-1 count of first, second and third place votes, Ashenfelter amassed a total of 1,112 points to 882 for Maj. Sammy Lee, the army doctor from Pasadena, Calif., who retained his Olympic platform diving championship at Helsinki.

Middle-distance runner Mal Whitfield, weight-lifter John Davis, women's diving champion Mrs. Patricia Keller McCormick, and basketball ace Bob Kurland followed in that order in the voting.

Ashenfelter is the 14th track and field athlete, and the fourth distance runner, to win the Sullivan Award.

Nardico Fights LaMotta Tonight In Florida Ring

Former 160-Pound Champ Is Favorite

MIAMI, Dec. 30 (AP)—A possible shot at Archie Moore's light heavyweight boxing crown awaits the winner of the Jake Lamotta-Danny Nardico match in the Coral Gables Coliseum Wednesday night.

In New York, an International Boxing Club spokesman said the survivor would be in line for a title match, although Moore is under contract to make his first defense against Joey Maxim, from whom he lifted the crown last Dec. 17.

Nardico, 25-year-old Tampa, Fla. slugger, is currently the fifth ranking light heavyweight contender. Lamotta is rated ninth but the odds favor the former middleweight champ over Nardico by 7 to 5.

The fight will be carried over the CBS television network, starting at 10 p. m. EST.

Lamotta, who lost the middleweight crown to Sugar Ray Robinson in 1951, won verdicts over Irish Bob Murphy, Gene Hairston and Norman Hayes in his last three bouts.

Nardico has had nine fights this year, losing his first and last. He was beaten by Robert Villemain in January and last month lost to Heavyweight Dan Bucceroni in Madison Square Garden.

The fight will be scored by the point system.

This slugger turned in the highest batting average ever credited to a Cumberland player in the eight years this city was represented in the Middle Atlantic Baseball League. The Colts acquired him at a bargain price from Asheville of the Sally League because that club was overloaded with "class" players. He had a great season here in 1926 when Pat Ragan, former major league twirler, managed the locals. Figuring in 95 games, he pounded the pellet at a .374 clip and won the league batting title.

This speedy outfielder rapped 40 two-baggers and 15 triples, to lead the loop in those departments, clouted 20 home runs and pilfered 13 bases.

He was with the Phillies in 1927, 1928 and 1929 and with Brooklyn in 1931. In 1929 he batted .306 in 76 games with the Phils. Injuries, however, plagued him in the majors as he had the misfortune to crash into walls several times while chasing fly balls and was as unlucky as "Pete" Reiser in this respect. What's his name?

Five Major Bowl Contests Expected To Draw 360,000

USC, Alabama, Texas, Florida, Tech Favored

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP) — A threat of moisture other than that provided by tearful coaches threatened to dampen New Year's Day football bowl programs. But there was no indication there might be enough rain to diminish the size and enthusiasm of the crowds, expected to total more than 400,000.

Weather forecasts indicated possible rain Thursday at New Orleans, where Georgia Tech and Mississippi will clash before 82,000 spectators in the Sugar Bowl and at Dallas, where the Cotton Bowl game between Tennessee and Texas is expected to attract 75,000.

From Pasadena, Calif. came word that rain is due tomorrow but Thursday will bring clearing weather and the 103,000 spectators at the Rose Bowl will enjoy clear skies and comfortably cool temperatures.

"Partly cloudy and mild" was the forecast for both the Orange Bowl at Miami between Alabama and Syracuse and the Gator Bowl between Florida and Tulsa at Jacksonville.

In addition to these five major bowl games, expected to draw some 360,000 fans, three other bowl games Thursday will add about 45,000 to the attendance total. They are the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., Mississippi Southern vs. College of the Pacific; Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz., San Diego Naval Training Center vs. 101st Airborne Division; and Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., East Texas State vs. Tennessee Tech.

As for the protests of the favorites, here's the list of prevailing point margins: Alabama 13 over Syracuse; Florida 7 over Tulsa; Southern California 7 over Wisconsin; Georgia Tech 8 over Mississippi; Texas 1½ over Tennessee.

Holiday Games Wreck Hopes Of Leading Quints

NEW YORK, Dec. 30 (AP)—Holiday tournaments, the current rage in intersectional basketball tests, are having the same effect as the barnstorming tours they have almost replaced. They're wrecking the hopes of the high-ranking teams.

Senior Back Was Star For Ft. Hill Team

Alderton Presents Winner With Watch; 11 Gridders Honored

BY JOHN W. KNOWLTON

John McVicker, speedy, hard-running halfback of the Fort Hill Sentinels' city champions was named the "Player of the Year" last night in ceremonies conducted at the Maryland Theatre by the Cumberland Knights of Columbus Council No. 586, sponsors of the award.

It was the fifth annual presentation since the program was inaugurated in 1948.

The Fort Hill senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McVicker, 147 Louisiana Avenue and completed four years on the Sentinel squad, two as a varsity member. His father is a physics and general science teacher at Fort Hill.

Alderton Is Speaker

McVicker was picked by the K of C three-man selection committee in a close vote over Bobby Christ, LaSalle halfback who was the only player to capture two "Player of the Week" awards during the 1952 football season.

John Alderton, defensive standout for the University of Maryland football team and co-captain of the 1952 Terps was the principal speaker for the occasion and presented the gold wrist watch to McVicker in recognition of his outstanding play for the Sentinels which resulted in his choice as top player of the Greater Cumberland area for the year.

Prior to the presentation to the winner, Alderton told the theatre audience and the assembled schoolboy stars that he thought each had done an outstanding job this season in football and recommended the game as a teacher of discipline, instilling the idea of competition which is our American way of life.

He also noted that the grid sport provided recreation and exercise for the participants and diligent practice was instrumental in helping decrease juvenile delinquency. It also taught fair play and sportsmanship, he added, as well as training the mind to think quickly in all situations and evaluating the theme of teamwork.

Condon Presents Guests

James Condon, past grand knight of the Knights of Columbus was master of ceremonies at the stage presentation and introduced Coaches Bill Hahn of Fort Hill, Chester Payne of Ridgeley, Norman Geatz of LaSalle, Alderton and J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times who in turn presented the 11 players who were eligible to receive the grand prize.

In addition to McVicker and Christ they were Jim Hoffman, Dick Rank, Dave Walton and Chuck Eirich of Allegany, Jim Farris, Bob Schade and Harold Hull of Fort Hill, and Paul Ackerman and Harold Hudson of LaSalle.

J. Arthur McDade, present grand knight of the K of C lodge, gave each of the runners-up a gold medal football with the letter of the representative school engraved on each medal.

Alderton, the coaches, members of the press, the players and K of C officials were honored at a dinner prior to the presentation.

Senior Back Was Star For Ft. Hill Team

Alderton Presents Winner With Watch; 11 Gridders Honored

BY JOHN W. KNOWLTON

John McVicker, speedy, hard-running halfback of the Fort Hill Sentinels' city champions was named the "Player of the Year" last night in ceremonies conducted at the Maryland Theatre by the Cumberland Knights of Columbus Council No. 586, sponsors of the award.

It was the fifth annual presentation since the program was inaugurated in 1948.

The Fort Hill senior is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. McVicker, 147 Louisiana Avenue and completed four years on the Sentinel squad, two as a varsity member. His father is a physics and general science teacher at Fort Hill.

Alderton Is Speaker

McVicker was picked by the K of C three-man selection committee in a close vote over Bobby Christ, LaSalle halfback who was the only player to capture two "Player of the Week" awards during the 1952 football season.

John Alderton, defensive standout for the University of Maryland football team and co-captain of the 1952 Terps was the principal speaker for the occasion and presented the gold wrist watch to McVicker in recognition of his outstanding play for the Sentinels which resulted in his choice as top player of the Greater Cumberland area for the year.

Prior to the presentation to the winner, Alderton told the theatre audience and the assembled schoolboy stars that he thought each had done an outstanding job this season in football and recommended the game as a teacher of discipline, instilling the idea of competition which is our American way of life.

He also noted that the grid sport provided recreation and exercise for the participants and diligent practice was instrumental in helping decrease juvenile delinquency. It also taught fair play and sportsmanship, he added, as well as training the mind to think quickly in all situations and evaluating the theme of teamwork.

Condon Presents Guests

James Condon, past grand knight of the Knights of Columbus was master of ceremonies at the stage presentation and introduced Coaches Bill Hahn of Fort Hill, Chester Payne of Ridgeley, Norman Geatz of LaSalle, Alderton and J. Suter Kegg, sports editor of the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times who in turn presented the 11 players who were eligible to receive the grand prize.

In addition to McVicker and Christ they were Jim Hoffman, Dick Rank, Dave Walton and Chuck Eirich of Allegany, Jim Farris, Bob Schade and Harold Hull of Fort Hill, and Paul Ackerman and Harold Hudson of LaSalle.

J. Arthur McDade, present grand knight of the K of C lodge, gave each of the runners-up a gold medal football with the letter of the representative school engraved on each medal.

Alderton, the coaches, members of the press, the players and K of C officials were honored at a dinner prior to the presentation.

Will Offer Bill In New Congress

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Another try for congressional approval of a national superhighway program is planned by Rep. Staggers (D-W Va).

Twice before without success the Keyser representative has offered bills to authorize establishment of a corporation to carry out construction of a 12 billion dollar roadway system. Tolls would repay the costs.

Staggers told a reporter he will offer similar legislation again soon after Congress convenes Saturday.

"I hope this time the chances for favorable action will be better," he said. "Traffic congestion is one of the big problems of the nation today and there is a growing public conviction that something must be done to solve it."

The bill, which failed to get a committee hearing last session, would provide for bond issues to build six super-highways criss-crossing the nation.

One would extend from near Boston to San Francisco; two from Florida, one to the Great Lakes region and one to New York State; one from the Canadian border in Minnesota to Laredo, Tex., to connect with the Pan American Highway; one from Jacksonville, Fla., to San Diego, Calif., and one from San Diego to Puget Sound.

As far as practicable, each superhighway would be on a 450-foot right-of-way. Each would be divided into two roads, one for trucks and buses and one for passenger cars.

Staggers said such a system would eliminate the "terrific congestion of highways which constitutes a growing safety hazard."

The program, he added, would not be a "social experiment," but a self-liquidating program through bonds and toll collections.

"Many states are providing toll highways," he said. "Such a program as this would be similar, but on a larger scale."

Superhighway Plan Supported By Rep. Staggers

Will Offer Bill In New Congress

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Another try for congressional approval of a national superhighway program is planned by Rep. Staggers (D-W Va).

Twice before without success the Keyser representative has offered bills to authorize establishment of a corporation to carry out construction of a 12 billion dollar roadway system. Tolls would repay the costs.

Staggers told a reporter he will offer similar legislation again soon after Congress convenes Saturday.

"I hope this time the chances for favorable action will be better," he said. "Traffic congestion is one of the big problems of the nation today and there is a growing public conviction that something must be done to solve it."

The bill, which failed to get a committee hearing last session, would provide for bond issues to build six super-highways criss-crossing the nation.

One would extend from near Boston to San Francisco; two from Florida, one to the Great Lakes region and one to New York State; one from the Canadian border in Minnesota to Laredo, Tex., to connect with the Pan American Highway; one from Jacksonville, Fla., to San Diego, Calif., and one from San Diego to Puget Sound.

As far as practicable, each superhighway would be on a 450-foot right-of-way. Each would be divided into two roads, one for trucks and buses and one for passenger cars.

Staggers said such a system would eliminate the "terrific congestion of highways which constitutes a growing safety hazard."

The program, he added, would not be a "social experiment," but a self-liquidating program through bonds and toll collections.

"Many states are providing toll highways," he said. "Such a program as this would be similar, but on a larger scale."

My New York

by Mel Heimer

NEW YORK—Things one New Yorker thinks about: This is a pretty hard city—don't let anyone tell you differently—but once in a while somebody does something nice. I've heard of two such occasions this week, which is virtually a jackpot. Man was walking along in the rain outside the Tailored Woman, a midtown style shop, when he saw a pigeon limping forlornly along the curb, so he picked it up and—well, cuddled it, I guess is the word. Salesgirl rushed out of the shop with a big hat box. Man put pigeon into box, tipped his hat and walked off. No words spoken. No words necessary. Of course, maybe the man was going to take the pigeon home and poison it but I prefer to think he was just going to give it some hot coffee and doughnuts and liberate it when the rain stopped.

Other occasion: man named Bill Kaduson, press agent, publicizes the cognac industry. Carries miniature bottles of it around. Saw one of those bell-ringing Santa Clauses looking pretty cold on Fifth Avenue the other day. Looked quickly around—then pulled Santa into a hallway and gifted him with one miniature bottle. . . . If you think traffic fines in your town are stiff, consider the recent action of a magistrate here. Confronted with an autoist who pleaded guilty to 29 violations, including two dozen parking offenses, the jurist sent him to Bellevue's psycho ward for 10 days' mental observation.

I listen regularly to records and the radio—but I don't hear any good bands, these days, aside from Sauter-Finegan. I've just been playing Benny Goodman's newest album, comprising numbers recorded on the road in 1937 and 1938—and they just don't make music like that any more. Does our popular music now consist, perish forbid, of offkey baritones singing "Sparrow in the Treetop?". . . They are readying a statue of Jose Bonifacio de Andrada e Silva, the man who steered Brazil to independence, for Bryant park, just in back of our public library. This town has more statues like that, of South American statesmen the average New Yorker never heard of. I am campaigning for a statue of Max Asnas, proprietor of the Stage delicatessen on Sixth Avenue, as the only horseplayer extant who admits cheerfully you can't beat the horses.

Drunks get pretty short shrift in the average court of law. It is pleasant, thus, to learn that a Homeless Men's court has been established on Rikers Island with the purpose of trying to help alcoholics, rehabilitate themselves, rather than just locking them up for a month in the workhouse. . . . Maybe Saks Fifth Avenue, the swank department store, is Manhattan's cleverest mart. It has been turning its entire main floor over to men shoppers exclusively one night a week. Females will pardon me, I am sure, if I point out that this is a tremendous lure for males aghast at the thought of fighting upstream, like a salmon, against distaff bargain-seekers.

You can't beat this town for putting first things first. The Brooklyn Borough Gas Co. installed its 100,000th gas meter the other day, in a synagogue, and there was a tremendous turnout of bigwigs at the ceremony. Even dedicated a bronze plaque in the synagogue. . . . We have ceremonies for everything. Few days ago a new "spectacular"—trade talk for big electric sign—was erected in Times Square for the Grand Union Company, and a huge cocktail party was held to celebrate its unveiling. The sign, incidentally, really is spectacular; has a 30-foot tower with a revolving aviation beam on top and an animated cartoon panel of 4,104 lamps, that shows movies from dusk to 1 a. m.

My hero this week is Hank Viscardi, born in New York 40 years ago with deformed, stumpy legs, who stands at normal height now with artificial limbs and who threw over a high-salaried job to become director of Just One Break, the unique organization that has Bellevue Hospital headquarters and tries to get business to help rehabilitate disabled people. His just-out book, "A Man's Stature," tells about it. Buy it, if you think you know what trouble is, and how one man spit in its eye.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—A child born this year or next can expect to live to the year 2020. One by one the ancient diseases of man succumb to medical science. Heart disease and cancer have moved to the front as foremost killers chiefly because people are living longer—an average of 20 years longer than people lived half a century ago.

Dr. Howard Rusk, a thoughtful observer and participant of the march of medicine, suggests that a complete review of the retirement practices of the American business and professional worlds is in order. If 65 years of age continues to be the hit or miss terminal of the labors of a great many of our people, the time will come when every working person will be matched by one person considered too old to work and—in the main—dependent on the tax-paying worker.

The U. S. death rate has declined about 10 per cent since 1944. During the period between 1937 and 1950 the increased life expectancy saved about one and three quarter million lives. Somebody has figured that the people of this country who might now be dead but for such miracles as the sulfa drugs, penicillin, streptomycin and other antibiotics pay more than $600,000,000 a year to the federal, state and city governments in taxes—somehow a macabre thought as if they were saved only for that.

From the time of introduction of penicillin and streptomycin, shortly after the big war, until the beginning of the 1950's, there were declines in death rates unmatched in all history.

The death rate from pneumonia declined 47 per cent; from influenza 81 per cent; from appendicitis 54 per cent; from scarlet fever 70 per cent; from syphillis 37 per cent; from tuberculosis 42 per cent; from acute rheumatic fever 53 per cent; from the principal communicable diseases of childhood 57 per cent, from childbirth 57 per cent.

A hundred years ago typhoid fever was a principal cause of death in this country, and cholera was well up the list. Today they are virtually unknown.

If we were not forced to spend so much for arms for our forces and our friends, we could afford to spread our medical culture as such wisdom has never been expanded before. It's a sick world. More than 300,000,000 people suffer from malaria, which could be suppressed by chloroquine and cured by primaquine—two developments of the former Office of Scientific Research and Development, which also produced the bazooka; the "duck" and much of the A-bomb. In some areas of the world two thirds of the people—amounting to additional millions—have trachoma, which yields magically to aureomycin, a U. S. development. (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

Even dedicated a bronze plaque in the synagogue. . . . We have ceremonies for everything. Few days ago a new "spectacular"—trade talk for big electric sign—was erected in Times Square for the Grand Union Company, and a huge cocktail party was held to celebrate its unveiling. The sign, incidentally, really is spectacular; has a 30-foot tower with a revolving aviation beam on top and an animated cartoon panel of 4,104 lamps, that shows movies from dusk to 1 a. m.

My hero this week is Hank Viscardi, born in New York 40 years ago with deformed, stumpy legs, who stands at normal height now with artificial limbs and who threw over a high-salaried job to become director of Just One Break, the unique organization that has Bellevue Hospital headquarters and tries to get business to help rehabilitate disabled people. His just-out book, "A Man's Stature," tells about it. Buy it, if you think you know what trouble is, and how one man spit in its eye.

NEW YORK (INS)—A child born this year or next can expect to live to the year 2020. One by one the ancient diseases of man succumb to medical science. Heart disease and cancer have moved to the front as foremost killers chiefly because people are living longer—an average of 20 years longer than people lived half a century ago.

Dr. Howard Rusk, a thoughtful observer and participant of the march of medicine, suggests that a complete review of the retirement practices of the American business and professional worlds is in order. If 65 years of age continues to be the hit or miss terminal of the labors of a great many of our people, the time will come when every working person will be matched by one person considered too old to work and—in the main—dependent on the tax-paying worker.

The U. S. death rate has declined about 10 per cent since 1944. During the period between 1937 and 1950 the increased life expectancy saved about one and three quarter million lives. Somebody has figured that the people of this country who might now be dead but for such miracles as the sulfa drugs, penicillin, streptomycin and other antibiotics pay more than $600,000,000 a year to the federal, state and city governments in taxes—somehow a macabre thought as if they were saved only for that.

From the time of introduction of penicillin and streptomycin, shortly after the big war, until the beginning of the 1950's, there were declines in death rates unmatched in all history.

The death rate from pneumonia declined 47 per cent; from influenza 81 per cent; from appendicitis 54 per cent; from scarlet fever 70 per cent; from syphillis 37 per cent; from tuberculosis 42 per cent; from acute rheumatic fever 53 per cent; from the principal communicable diseases of childhood 57 per cent, from childbirth 57 per cent.

A hundred years ago typhoid fever was a principal cause of death in this country, and cholera was well up the list. Today they are virtually unknown.

If we were not forced to spend so much for arms for our forces and our friends, we could afford to spread our medical culture as such wisdom has never been expanded before. It's a sick world. More than 300,000,000 people suffer from malaria, which could be suppressed by chloroquine and cured by primaquine—two developments of the former Office of Scientific Research and Development, which also produced the bazooka; the "duck" and much of the A-bomb. In some areas of the world two thirds of the people—amounting to additional millions—have trachoma, which yields magically to aureomycin, a U. S. development. (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 30 (INS)—When he was stationed in Munich, Vic Damone heard a song, "Will You Marry Me," and promptly bought it. It was written by another GI, who won a song contest with this number.

Joe Pasternak heard the song and was so crazy about it that he promptly bought half and will use the title and the song in a picture to star the talented young Damone.

Vic hadn't met Joan Tyler when he bought the tune—or had he? At any rate, he's been singing it to her these evenings.

Vic will be the guest of honor at Ciro's Friday night when Jimmy McHugh will put on a Vic Damone night with many of the young stars present.

When I was on the Jack Benny show I wrote about a young boy named Charles Hand, who was so polite and so good looking that Mrs. Jack Benny persuaded William Goetz to take a look at the boy and give him a test.

Now the young man writes me to say, "I want to thank you for the nice writeup you gave me in your column. I am starting my first picture this week. It's called 'Stopover' and stars Barbara Stanwyck."

Personal to Charles: You have the same name as a very great newspaper man I knew very well—Charlie Hand, who was one of the best political writers of his day in New York.

I sat and talked to Virginia and Darryl Zanuck, the French countess who is their house guest, and Alex D'Arcy at Ciro's. Darryl told me that Alex has been signed for a very important part in "How To Marry a Millionaire," which stars Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe and Lauren Bacall.

Then Alex started reminiscing how long he's known me. He was courting Arlene Whelan when Arlene was one of the girls in my personal appearance show, and later married her. Their marriage was very brief, it's true, but at the time they were so much in love.

I mentioned in my column that after hearing Jesse Lasky reminisce at Sam Goldwyn's 40th celebration, he ought to write a book.

Says Jesse, "You guessed my secret. I have been writing the story of my life for three months. The title is "I Blow My Own Horn." Doubleday will publish it about April 15 before 'The Big Brass Band' goes into production.

"And, by the way, my picture has nothing to do with Sousa. The idea is entirely different."

What is it our copy books say about perseverance—well, whatever the exact words are they apply to Bill Holmes, the Fleischman Yeast heir.

Bill has long wanted to be an actor, but instead of using his name and wealth to get himself a star role, he has been taking any kind of small part he could get at Republic, sometimes even acting as a stuntman in westerns.

Now he gets himself the top role in "Cocobolo," a Robert Peters production, which Republic will film in Peru in color after the first of the year, with Henry Herts as director.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Dick Quine and his wife have taken Timmy, the little boy the late Susan Peters adopted, into their home. After Dick and Susan parted, she raised the little boy.

A merry holiday table at Chasen's—Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lewis, Vic Damone and Joan Tyler were all in stitches over Jerry's nonsense.

At a nearby table Jimmy and Gloria Stewart were receiving congratulations for the fine job they did on Jack Benny's TV show.

Such good news that our beloved Monsignor Patrick Concannon, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, is improving at St. John's Hospital.

It's a big secret so don't tell I told you, but Zsa Zsa Gabor makes her night club debut at the Sahara Hotel at Las Vegas.

In the holiday crowd at the Statler where Victor Borge is appearing were Ann Sheridan and Mecca Graham, Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran, Gracie Allen and George Burns.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Heighten your beauty tonight to the highest degree by glamorizing your eyes this way!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

On this most gala night of the year, a little extra fillip for your appearance is just what is needed to match the occasion. There's one that provides more allure than any frill or furbelow. It's a deft touch that focalizes interest on your eyes, heightening their beauty to the highest degree.

Naturally, it starts with neat brows—any stragglers must be dispersed. Take care, though, not to change the basic shape of your brows. Tweezers with scissors handles are the easiest to manage.

Eye Glamor

Next, complete your entire makeup, except for eye cosmetics. Unless you do so, you cannot gauge how much eye make-up is needed.

Now for the glamorizers: 1. Are your eyebrows skimpy or irregular? Pencil in what's missing with light, upward, contiguous strokes. Use brown pencil on blond brows and black on brunette. Take care not to over-extend the length; beauty lies in a brow that extends neither beyond the inside nor the outside corners of the eye socket. However, the more width you can get, the more desirable.

2. Does your upper lid overhang or puff? Blend brown shadow on the area and it will be subdued.

3. Now, for some magic. With a clean lipstick brush, apply an eyeshadow that contrasts with the hue of your iris. Working close to the lashes, spread it from the inside corner of the lid to an eighth of an inch beyond the outside corner. Begin with a narrow wedge and gradually increase it to wide. Use your finger to blend it to a shadowy finish.

Eye Accent

4. Hold the upper lid taut and with a blunt eyebrow pencil run a diffused line atop the lashes from the center to a quarter inch beyond the outer edge. As the pencil passes the last lash, give it an upward flick.

5. Either lightly powder your lashes and apply mascara in a shade that matches your pencil or brush an eyelash cream over them, following up with an eyelash curler. Catch only a few lashes in it at a time rather than all in one swoop.

6. Finish by brushing dark brows upward and then trimming the top line with a horizontal stroke. If your brows are light, add mascara to the brush.

7. Place a beauty spot on the highest point of one cheekbone.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as toneless-ness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow: Charm ahead.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 30 (INS)—When he was stationed in Munich, Vic Damone heard a song, "Will You Marry Me," and promptly bought it. It was written by another GI, who won a song contest with this number.

Joe Pasternak heard the song and was so crazy about it that he promptly bought half and will use the title and the song in a picture to star the talented young Damone.

Vic hadn't met Joan Tyler when he bought the tune—or had he? At any rate, he's been singing it to her these evenings.

Vic will be the guest of honor at Ciro's Friday night when Jimmy McHugh will put on a Vic Damone night with many of the young stars present.

When I was on the Jack Benny show I wrote about a young boy named Charles Hand, who was so polite and so good looking that Mrs. Jack Benny persuaded William Goetz to take a look at the boy and give him a test.

Now the young man writes me to say, "I want to thank you for the nice writeup you gave me in your column. I am starting my first picture this week. It's called 'Stopover' and stars Barbara Stanwyck."

Personal to Charles: You have the same name as a very great newspaper man I knew very well—Charlie Hand, who was one of the best political writers of his day in New York.

I sat and talked to Virginia and Darryl Zanuck, the French countess who is their house guest, and Alex D'Arcy at Ciro's. Darryl told me that Alex has been signed for a very important part in "How To Marry a Millionaire," which stars Betty Grable, Marilyn Monroe and Lauren Bacall.

Then Alex started reminiscing how long he's known me. He was courting Arlene Whelan when Arlene was one of the girls in my personal appearance show, and later married her. Their marriage was very brief, it's true, but at the time they were so much in love.

I mentioned in my column that after hearing Jesse Lasky reminisce at Sam Goldwyn's 40th celebration, he ought to write a book.

Says Jesse, "You guessed my secret. I have been writing the story of my life for three months. The title is "I Blow My Own Horn." Doubleday will publish it about April 15 before 'The Big Brass Band' goes into production.

"And, by the way, my picture has nothing to do with Sousa. The idea is entirely different."

What is it our copy books say about perseverance—well, whatever the exact words are they apply to Bill Holmes, the Fleischman Yeast heir.

Bill has long wanted to be an actor, but instead of using his name and wealth to get himself a star role, he has been taking any kind of small part he could get at Republic, sometimes even acting as a stuntman in westerns.

Now he gets himself the top role in "Cocobolo," a Robert Peters production, which Republic will film in Peru in color after the first of the year, with Henry Herts as director.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Dick Quine and his wife have taken Timmy, the little boy the late Susan Peters adopted, into their home. After Dick and Susan parted, she raised the little boy.

A merry holiday table at Chasen's—Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Lewis, Vic Damone and Joan Tyler were all in stitches over Jerry's nonsense.

At a nearby table Jimmy and Gloria Stewart were receiving congratulations for the fine job they did on Jack Benny's TV show.

It's a big secret so don't tell I told you, but Zsa Zsa Gabor makes her night club debut at the Sahara Hotel at Las Vegas.

In the holiday crowd at the Statler where Victor Borge is appearing were Ann Sheridan and Mecca Graham, Betty Hutton and Charles O'Curran, Gracie Allen and George Burns.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Heighten your beauty tonight to the highest degree by glamorizing your eyes this way!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

On this most gala night of the year, a little extra fillip for your appearance is just what is needed to match the occasion. There's one that provides more allure than any frill or furbelow. It's a deft touch that focalizes interest on your eyes, heightening their beauty to the highest degree.

Naturally, it starts with neat brows—any stragglers must be dispersed. Take care, though, not to change the basic shape of your brows. Tweezers with scissors handles are the easiest to manage.

Eye Glamor

Next, complete your entire make-up, except for eye cosmetics. Unless you do so, you cannot gauge how much eye make-up is needed.

Now for the glamorizers: 1. Are your eyebrows skimpy or irregular? Pencil in what's missing with light, upward, contiguous strokes. Use brown pencil on blond brows and black on brunette. Take care not to over-extend the length; beauty lies in a brow that extends neither beyond the inside nor the outside corners of the eye socket. However, the more width you can get, the more desirable.

2. Does your upper lid overhang or puff? Blend brown shadow on the area and it will be subdued.

3. Now, for some magic. With a clean lipstick brush, apply an eyeshadow that contrasts with the hue of your iris. Working close to the lashes, spread it from the inside corner of the lid to an eighth of an inch beyond the outside corner. Begin with a narrow wedge and gradually increase it to wide. Use your finger to blend it to a shadowy finish.

Eye Accent

4. Hold the upper lid taut and with a blunt eyebrow pencil run a diffused line atop the lashes from the center to a quarter inch beyond the outer edge. As the pencil passes the last lash, give it an upward flick.

5. Either lightly powder your lashes and apply mascara in a shade that matches your pencil or brush an eyelash cream over them, following up with an eyelash curler. Catch only a few lashes in it at a time rather than all in one swoop.

6. Finish by brushing dark brows upward and then trimming the top line with a horizontal stroke. If your brows are light, add mascara to the brush.

7. Place a beauty spot on the highest point of one cheekbone.

These are the tricks that make eyes outshine emeralds and ermine as a fillip to loveliness!

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice—one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success—by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as toneless-ness, dullness and lack of proper modulation. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper, enclosing 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Tomorrow: Charm ahead.

Radio And Television

The 700th Concert

Radio, fighting a losing battle most of the way along the line, is still winning handily in one department, that of music. On January 11, one of radio's greatest programs — the New York Philharmonic Symphony — will be broadcast for the 700th time, which is a lot of times. The Philharmonic has become that rare thing, a radio classic. That is, it has acquired such enormous prestige that any changes in its structure are greeted with a roar of protest as if the network were proposing to monkey with the United States Constitution.

John Crosby

In the 1950-51 season, for example, the symphony was recorded and broadcast at 1 p. m. (EST) Sundays in place of the normal time at 2:30. Recording, of course, has become such a high art that even sound engineers can hardly tell the difference. Still, listeners from Boston to Houston were outraged at the very thought that their beloved concert was coming to them out of a can rather than out of a concert hall. The following year, the Philharmonic went back on the air live and it still is live. It's doubtful that anyone will monkey with it any more.

Last December when the Philharmonic performed its 5,000th concert, it had attained such eminence that "Life" hailed it as the "greatest single institution in musical history," noting particularly that it had pioneered in the broadcasting of symphony music. Curiously enough, it took some doing to get it on the air in the first place.

The symphony broadcasts were the brain child of William S. Paley who had just acquired control of CBS. In 1930 when he dreamed it all up, CBS was very much the junior network to the older, larger and infinitely more powerful NBC. It was Paley's thought that the broadcasting of a symphony concert on a regular basis would give his network a little prestige with which to combat NBC's high position. His co-directors thought he was out of his mind, pointing out that there was no audience for good music. Paley retorted that he would create one. The Philharmonic has done just that. The first broadcast, October 5, 1930, a performance of Weber's overture to "Der Freischutz",, was heard over 16 stations by an audience which by today's standards is infinitesimal. Today it's broadcast over 194 stations to an audience that runs into the millions. Its rating (4.2) is the best for any Sunday afternoon network radio show.

It's impossible to estimate how large a contribution the Philharmonic has made toward creating the present huge market for symphony records or for concerts throughout the country. The Philharmonic has even done a lot toward building an audience for rival symphonies which followed it on the air. The impact of good music on American culture can't be measured in ordinary terms but it may be assumed that it has had a deep and permanent effect.

In fact, radio's contributions in the field of good music only calls attention to its glaring omission in other fields. Radio, it seems to me, might have created an audience for great books, great plays and great minds just as it did for great music. But it didn't.

The Philharmonic broadcasts have successfully disproved the old notion that sympony music appeals only to the upper crust. Fan mail, station reports, telephone calls and surveys reveal that symphony appeals to people in all classes of society and in rural as well as urban communities. Some of the Philharmonic's most devoted fans are soldiers situated in God-forsaken spots in the world. This December, the orchestra got a $5 contribution from an Army private in Korea who wrote that the broadcasts which are heard in Korea were his only link with America. The symphony is also heard by troops in Hawaii and Alaska. Today more people listen to the Philharmonic on a single Sunday afternoon than have attended the concerts at Carnegie Hall in the orchestra's 110-year existence.

James Fassett now does the 10 or 15 minute intermission talks and interviews and these bring in quite a lot of mail. These range from talks with musicians to tape recordings of musical events done on the spot around the country and sometimes in Europe. Fassett has made these tape recordings in Waukesha, Wis.; on Boston's Beacon Hill (where the Beacon Hill Bell Ringers played carols on bells), and at Grandma Moses' home in Eagle Bridge, N. Y. On this one, Grandma Moses told about the first Christmas she remembered when she was four years old, 88 years ago.

BEST EARLY AND LATE

POSSESSION of biddable spades is an advantage in both the early and late bidding of a deal. At the outset, a call of the top-ranking suit has the special value of erecting a barrier against your opponents, if their strength is fairly well divided, since it can not be overcalled at the same level. In the late stages, when each side may have been active, ownership of the spades gives you the sure ability to overcall the other side's suit bid, if you wish to, either to seek a makeable contract or to save points by means of a sacrifice.

	♠ J 10 7 5 3 2 ♥ K 10 8 5 3 ♦ None ♣ 6 4
♠ None ♥ J 7 2 ♦ K Q 10 7 3 ♣ K Q 9 7 5	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ A Q 9 6 4 ♦ 9 5 4 ♣ J 10 8 2
	♠ A K Q 9 8 4 ♥ None ♦ A J 8 6 2 ♣ A 3

(Dealer. South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	3 ♠	4 ♠	4 ♥
5 ♥	6 ♣	6 ♠	7 ♣
7 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

You could not ask for a better illustration of the reason why many veteran campaigners call the spade suit "the overcoat." The idea is that the overcoat covers everything else, as it did on this deal. The defenders would have loved to overcall the 7-Spades, if possible, but unfortunately for them the Laws do not permit a contract of eight-odd. They would have been willing to get set the necessary number of tricks, when not vulnerable, since it seemed, from their opponents' bidding, cueing the two red suits, that the spade slam was makeable. You may discount East's double as based on temper and futility, as he had no real hope of setting it. His idea was that it might guide a heart lead from West, and that South might have been faking by showing a void.

You can easily see that South had no problem to make his grand slam, no matter what West led. The diamond A could furnish a discard of a club from dummy, and the remaining tricks were easy to take by means of a cross-ruff.

If the black suits had been exchanged between the two sides, with East and West holding in spades the same cards as the clubs they actually had, they would have played at 7-Spades, which their opponents could not overcall in the clubs. Such a contract would have been set a few tricks only, for a much smaller score by North and South than the grand slam produced.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A J 10 8 6 5 2 ♥ 7 4 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ 8
♠ 9 ♥ 8 6 ♦ A 7 5 4 3 ♣ A 7 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ K 7 ♥ A Q 10 9 3 ♦ 8 ♣ Q J 10 5 4
	♠ Q 4 3 ♥ K J 5 2 ♦ K 9 6 2 ♣ K 9

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the smartest bidding of this rubber deal, by all concerned, after North opens with 1-Spade?

The 700th Concert

Radio, fighting a losing battle most of the way along the line, is still winning handily in one department, that of music. On January 11, one of radio's greatest programs — the New York Philharmonic Symphony — will be broadcast for the 700th time, which is a lot of times. The Philharmonic has become that rare thing, a radio classic. That is, it has acquired such enormous prestige that any changes in its structure are greeted with a roar of protest as if the network were proposing to monkey with the United States Constitution.

John Crosby

In the 1950-51 season, for example, the symphony was recorded and broadcast at 1 p. m. (EST) Sundays in place of the normal time at 2:30. Recording, of course, has become such a high art that even sound engineers can hardly tell the difference. Still, listeners from Boston to Houston were outraged at the very thought that their beloved concert was coming to them out of a can rather than out of a concert hall. The following year, the Philharmonic went back on the air live and it still is live. It's doubtful that anyone will monkey with it any more.

Last December when the Philharmonic performed its 5,000th concert, it had attained such eminence that "Life" hailed it as the "greatest single institution in musical history," noting particularly that it had pioneered in the broadcasting of symphony music. Curiously enough, it took some doing to get it on the air in the first place.

The symphony broadcasts were the brain child of William S. Paley who had just acquired control of CBS. In 1930 when he dreamed it all up, CBS was very much the junior network to the older, larger and infinitely more powerful NBC. It was Paley's thought that the broadcasting of a symphony concert on a regular basis would give his network a little prestige with which to combat NBC's high position. His co-directors thought he was out of his mind, pointing out that there was no audience for good music. Paley retorted that he would create one. The Philharmonic has done just that. The first broadcast, October 5, 1930, a performance of Weber's overture to "Der Freischutz",, was heard over 16 stations by an audience which by today's standards is infinitesimal. Today it's broadcast over 194 stations to an audience that runs into the millions. Its rating (4.2) is the best for any Sunday afternoon network radio show.

It's impossible to estimate how large a contribution the Philharmonic has made toward creating the present huge market for symphony records or for concerts throughout the country. The Philharmonic has even done a lot toward building an audience for rival symphonies which followed it on the air. The impact of good music on American culture can't be measured in ordinary terms but it may be assumed that it has had a deep and permanent effect.

In fact, radio's contributions in the field of good music only calls attention to its glaring omission in other fields. Radio, it seems to me, might have created an audience for great books, great plays and great minds just as it did for great music. But it didn't.

The Philharmonic broadcasts have successfully disproved the old notion that sympony music appeals only to the upper crust. Fan mail, station reports, telephone calls and surveys reveal that symphony appeals to people in all classes of society and in rural as well as urban communities. Some of the Philharmonic's most devoted fans are soldiers situated in God-forsaken spots in the world. This December, the orchestra got a $5 contribution from an Army private in Korea who wrote that the broadcasts which are heard in Korea were his only link with America. The symphony is also heard by troops in Hawaii and Alaska. Today more people listen to the Philharmonic on a single Sunday afternoon than have attended the concerts at Carnegie Hall in the orchestra's 110-year existence.

James Fassett now does the 10 or 15 minute intermission talks and interviews and these bring in quite a lot of mail. These range from talks with musicians to tape recordings of musical events done on the spot around the country and sometimes in Europe. Fassett has made these tape recordings in Waukesha, Wis.; on Boston's Beacon Hill (where the Beacon Hill Bell Ringers played carols on bells), and at Grandma Moses' home in Eagle Bridge, N. Y. On this one, Grandma Moses told about the first Christmas she remembered when she was four years old, 88 years ago.

BEST EARLY AND LATE

POSSESSION of biddable spades is an advantage in both the early and late bidding of a deal. At the outset, a call of the top-ranking suit has the special value of erecting a barrier against your opponents, if their strength is fairly well divided, since it can not be overcalled at the same level. In the late stages, when each side may have been active, ownership of the spades gives you the sure ability to overcall the other side's suit bid, if you wish to, either to seek a makeable contract or to save points by means of a sacrifice.

	♠ J 10 7 5 3 2 ♥ K 10 8 5 3 ♦ None ♣ 6 4
♠ None ♥ J 7 2 ♦ K Q 10 7 3 ♣ K Q 9 7 5	N W E S	♠ 6 ♥ A Q 9 6 4 ♦ 9 5 4 ♣ J 10 8 2
	♠ A K Q 9 8 4 ♥ None ♦ A J 8 6 2 ♣ A 3

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	3 ♦	4 ♠	4 ♥
5 ♥	6 ♣	6 ♠	7 ♣
7 ♠	Pass	Pass	Dbl.

You could not ask for a better illustration of the reason why many veteran campaigners call the spade suit "the overcoat." The idea is that the overcoat covers everything else, as it did on this deal. The defenders would have loved to overcall the 7-Spades, if possible, but unfortunately for them the Laws do not permit a contract of eight-odd. They would have been willing to get set the necessary number of tricks, when not vulnerable, since it seemed, from their opponents' bidding, cueing the two red suits, that the spade slam was makeable. You may discount East's double as based on temper and futility, as he had no real hope of setting it. His idea was that it might guide a heart lead from West, and that South might have been faking by showing a void.

You can easily see that South had no problem to make his grand slam, no matter what West led. The diamond A could furnish a discard of a club from dummy, and the remaining tricks were easy to take by means of a cross-ruff.

If the black suits had been exchanged between the two sides, with East and West holding in spades the same cards as the clubs they actually had, they would have played at 7-Spades, which their opponents could not overcall in the clubs. Such a contract would have been set a few tricks only, for a much smaller score by North and South than the grand slam produced.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ A J 10 8 6 5 2 ♥ 7 4 ♦ Q J 10 ♣ 8
♠ 9 ♥ 8 6 ♦ A 7 5 4 3 ♣ A 7 6 3 2	N W E S	♠ K 7 ♥ A Q 10 9 3 ♦ 8 ♣ Q J 10 5 4
	♠ Q 4 3 ♥ K J 5 2 ♦ K 9 6 2 ♣ K 9

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the smartest bidding of this rubber deal, by all concerned, after North opens with 1-Spade?

National Safety Council Tests reveal facts to help you avoid accidents and traffic tie-ups this winter. These four charts show average results. Skid distances of bare tires vary as much as 130 per cent, however, with changing temperatures or sunshine. At 4 degrees below zero tires without chains can stop on ice in about 110 feet at 20 m.p.h., but the same car, at same speed, takes about 250 feet to stop on same ice at 30 degrees above zero. This variable has led many a driver to disaster. Temperatures of 15 degrees above zero or higher put a moist film on ice or hard-packed snow which, without tire chains, greatly increases skidding.

Above are National Safety Council facts, based on tests by its Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. For comparison, normal braking distances of autos on dry and wet concrete are only about 21 and 26 feet respectively. Study of each chart may save your life, or at least prevent trouble. For each "braking distance" above you must add 22 feet, which is distance traveled during average "reaction time" to get your foot on brake.

Better gainers elsewhere included Goodyear, Republic Steel, Phelps Dodge, Homestake Mining, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Anaconda Copper, Sinclair Oil, American Telephone and Montgomery Ward.

International Nickel closed 1⅞ higher at 46⅛ after the Canadian company indicated it wants to raise the price of nickel by 3½ cents a pound and asked the U. S. government not to oppose such a move.

National Safety Council Tests reveal facts to help you avoid accidents and traffic tie-ups this winter. These four charts show average results. Skid distances of bare tires vary as much as 130 per cent, however, with changing temperatures or sunshine. At 4 degrees below zero tires without chains can stop on ice in about 110 feet at 20 m.p.h., but the same car, at same speed, takes about 250 feet to stop on same ice at 30 degrees above zero. This variable has led many a driver to disaster. Temperatures of 15 degrees above zero or higher put a moist film on ice or hard-packed snow which, without tire chains, greatly increases skidding.

Above are National Safety Council facts, based on tests by its Committee on Winter Driving Hazards. For comparison, normal braking distances of autos on dry and wet concrete are only about 21 and 26 feet respectively. Study of each chart may save your life, or at least prevent trouble. For each "braking distance" above you must add 22 feet, which is distance traveled during average "reaction time" to get your foot on brake.

International Nickel closed 1⅞ higher at 46⅛ after the Canadian company indicated it wants to raise the price of nickel by 3½ cents a pound and asked the U. S. government not to oppose such a move.

Fire Destroys Couple's Home Near Flintstone

Flue Blaze Starts While Owners Away

A flue fire, thought to have been extinguished, flared up again several hours later yesterday to destroy a couple's home on the Old Cumberland Road east of Polish Mountain.

Members of Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company, which received a call too late, said the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McDonald was crumbling when they arrived at the scene.

However, 15 minutes after firemen received the call at 11 a. m. yesterday, they went into action to save nearby buildings despite the lack of water. Firemen were able to save only half of a 10-by-12-foot building about 12 feet away from the home. The smaller structure was also in flames when firemen arrived.

Two Other Buildings Saved

Two other buildings about eight feet away from the blazing house were also saved by quick-working firemen. These were 12 by 16 feet in size.

The home itself burned to the ground and members of the fire company could only spray water on the remaining embers. Fire officials said the house was a seven or eight-room wood building.

According to investigating firemen, the blaze actually started earlier yesterday morning as a flue fire. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald quickly extinguished the blaze at about 7 a. m.

Later the couple left their home to go to Flintstone. Several hours later, an elderly woman, Mrs. Jessie Maill, formerly of near Flintstone, who is visiting the McDonalds during the holidays, detected the odor of smoke in the kitchen.

Ran For Help

When Mrs. Maill opened a wall cabinet in the room, flames rushed into her face. Unharmed, she ran to a neighbor's home for help. Another neighbor meanwhile ran two miles to the nearest telephone to report the fire.

The fire company, however, was too late to save the building, but worked until 2 p. m. keeping the flames away from nearby structures. Firemen said the only water available was in their own truck's tanks and several trips had to be made to a nearby station for refills. One truck and seven men from the company were on the scene.

Firemen were again called about 6 o'clock yesterday evening to dampen smouldering embers which were spitting sparks, endangering buildings nearby.

Election Rules Will Be Set By Textile Workers

Discussion and action on election procedure to be used for Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America's general election will be held at membership meetings on January 14 and 15.

The first meeting will be held Wednesday, January 14, at 7:30 p. m. and the second on the following morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the election procedure action will be of special importance because recommendations of the Executive Board differ with previous action of the membership, and will require retroaction.

Nomination of officers for 1953 will also be held at the meetings.

Those who desire to accept nomination for any office, but cannot be present at either meeting, must have a note of intention to accept nomination for the office in the hands of the recording secretary by January 14 at 7:30 p. m.

Discussion and action is also planned on questions involving the reopening clause in the local's contract with the Celanese Corporation.

The exact dates for the union's election will have to be set by the Honest Ballot Association of New York.

Union officials said the dates of the meeting were incorrectly announced last week as January 7 and 8, adding that the time is set by the by-laws.

Cecil Lawrence Whetsell, 25, of B&O YMCA, Brunswick, formerly of Cumberland, was given a suspended sentence of one year in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of petty larceny yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

City Police arrested Whetsell Monday night in the Queen City Restaurant in connection with the theft of a woman's purse from Lee's Tavern, North Mechanic Street.

Lt. James E. Van of the Detective Bureau said Whetsell was picked up after Mrs. Lewis Edwards, 217 Greene Street, reported he took the purse, containing close to $100.

Van added Whetsell admitted stealing the money and discarding the pocketbook.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason yesterday suspended the one-year term on condition Whetsell make restitution to Mrs. Edwards, abstain from drinking and be of good behavior. He was paroled for two years.

In another theft case yesterday, Harry Davis, 50, of Barton, was given a suspended sentence of 18 months in the House of Correction on a charge of stealing whisky and money from a Barton tavern.

Authorities said Davis took three fifths and two pints of liquor from a tavern operated by Dan Logston. He also stole $14.25 in cash.

State Trooper Harry Bosley, who recovered the stolen goods, said Davis broke into the tavern December 24. He was arrested Friday.

Two More Suits Filed As Result Of Fatal Crash

Two more suits, seeking a total of $6,500 damages as a result of the McMullen Highway accident which took five lives August 31, were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Anna Virginia Michael, Westernport, widowed mother of Richard A. Michael, has filed the suits against James Moran, administrator of the estate of Richard D. Moran, another victim of the crash.

These latest suits bring to 10 the number of actions, asking a total of $132,500 damages, that have been docketed as a result of the tragic accident. Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr. has filed all 10 of the suits.

In her declaration, Mrs. Michael states that her son was riding in Richard Moran's car at his invitation and consent at the time of the fatal crash. She asserts that it was Moran's duty to drive or cause the automobile to be driven in a careful and prudent manner. Nevertheless, she says, Timothy M. Gilmore, another victim of the crash, was driving Moran's car at an excessively high and unlawful rate of speed.

Mrs. Michael, a 60-year old woman, said that her son's death has caused her substantial pecuniary damages as he was her sole support. For this loss she asks $5,000 damages. In the second action, Mrs. Michael seeks $1,500 damages for burial, funeral and medical expenses in the death of her son.

Woman Charged With Operating Disorderly House

Minnie V. Wintermeyer Corrick, proprietor of the York Hotel, was arrested yesterday noon by City Police on a charge of operating a house of ill fame.

She was released under $50 bond, according to Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau, pending a hearing in Police Court today at 9 a. m. Assisting Van in making the arrest was Officer Leo E. P. Law.

Information leading to Mrs. Corrick's arrest was obtained yesterday while police questioned James Woody, alias Robert Richardson, 29, of Kirby, W. Va., who is wanted in three states on bad check charges. He was arrested here Monday night.

Van said Woody told him a Pearl Elizabeth Richmond, 49, of 300-block Paca Street, with whom he had been to the hotel on or about December 15, had taken a sum of money from him. Mrs. Richmond was taken into custody about 10:30 p. m. Monday by Van and Law and charged with being an inmate of a house of ill fame. Her bond was set at $10.

Woody is being detained at City Jail.

Phone Company To Spend Funds Near Oakland

Long Distance Channels Will Be Increased

Expenditure of $9,900 for additional long distance channels from Oakland to points in West Virginia was approved yesterday by the Board of Directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

Yesterday the C&P directors authorized total expenditures of $4,097,000 for improvement and expansion of telephone facilities in Maryland. These expenditures bring the total approved for new telephone construction in the state during 1952 to $25,213,000.

Many Projects

The major portion of the total approved at yesterday's meeting was $3,607,000 which will be allocated to a large number of projects involving expenditures for the construction and replacement of telephone plants in Maryland during the first quarter of 1953.

An expenditure of $129,000 was authorized for the conversion of 9,200 telephones from manual to dial operation preparatory to the introduction of dial service in Essex. This brings the total amount approved for this project to $2,588,000, including a new building and dial switching equipment.

To further improve service during periods of peak volume of calls, more than $35,000 was authorized for the installation of equipment additions and modifications in the Hyattsville, Shepherd and Wisconsin dial centers in the Maryland suburban area adjacent to Washington.

Expansion Of Cable

A total of $24,500 was allocated for the expansion of cable facilities in the Accokeek and Piscataway sections of Southern Maryland and in the Bowleys Quarters Road section of the Chase Exchange. These two projects will provide facilities to take care of waiting applicants for telephone service.

"The concerted effort to meet civilian and defense demands for telephone service, the further improvement in the quality of that service and the need for higher rates to improve the company's earnings during a continuing period of inflation highspotted C&P operations in Maryland during 1952," W. G. Morrel, C&P vice-president, said.

Large construction projects entirely or substantially completed during the year included new buildings and new dial equipment at Hyattsville, Frederick, Leonardtown, Oakland and Smithsburg as well as a new building at Essex for dial service in 1953. Substantial additions to both local and toll dial equipment were made in Baltimore, Towson and in the area adjacent to Washington, Morrel stated.

W. P. Darr Gets Two-Year Term In Motor Case

William P. "Buck" Darr, 45, of Rawlings, who once served a 90-day manslaughter term on weekends, was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction for breaking three state motor laws.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason handed Darr a one-year term for drunken driving, six months for reckless driving, and six months for driving after his license had been revoked. Mason said the six-months terms will run consecutively, the year sentence concurrently with the other terms. Darr thus will be eligible for parole after serving a full year.

Darr was arrested Saturday night after his car hit the Virginia Avenue subway. When he was taken to court yesterday, Magistrate Mason sent him back to jail until court attaches could check over his long record of motor vehicle violations.

They found:

"April 18, 1931 arrested for failing to report an accident, fined $40 and costs, reckless driving, $50 and costs and driving without a license, $10 and costs. He was acquitted of drunken driving and having no permanent dealer tags.

"April 29, 1931 license revoked; December 9, 1950 license reinstated; December 20, 1950, fatal accident; December 20, 1950 license withheld; January 10, 1951 manslaughter, 90 days in jail; April 9, 1951 failure to report before the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, license revoked, and June 14, 1951 operating on a revoked license, fined $100 and costs."

Darr's wife, Mrs. Mary Catherine (Phillips) Darr, 40, died in December, 1950 at Allegany Hospital, five hours after she was struck by her husband's tractor-trailer on Route 220 in front of their home.

After Associate Judge George Henderson passed sentence, Darr was permitted to serve the 90-day term on weekends.

Farmers Have Recourse If Income Tax Is Questioned

This is the last of three articles on farmers' 1952 income tax. Previous articles discussed increased tax rates, sale of the farm home, installment sales of farms, and sale of livestock as capital assets.

Growing crops, when sold with the farm, can be counted as part of the sale price of the farm, under the following conditions: 1) the land on which the crops are growing must have been owned 6 months or more; 2) the crop must be unharvested; 3) land and crops must be sold to the same person; 4) expenses in producing the crop cannot be deducted in arriving at capital gains; and 5) the sale occurs in taxable years beginning in 1951.

Recourse Possible

If your return is questioned, and at a conference with a local representative of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, payment of additional tax is required, there are several recourses which you may wish to follow. First, you may ask for an informal conference to discuss the proposed adjustments. Second, if it is clear to you that you owe the amount requested, you may sign a waiver and pay the additional tax. If you are not satisfied with the explanation furnished by the conferee, you should not sign a waiver and you will receive a 30-day letter. The receipt of the 30-day letter gives you 30 days in which to decide whether the additional tax is owed and to choose one of three courses of action.

May File Protest

First, you may file a formal protest, under oath, and request that the case be transferred to the Appellate Division of the District. Second, you can, by request, or by simply failing to respond during the 30-day period, secure the issuance of the statutory notice from which an appeal may be taken to the Tax Court of the United States. Third, you may sign the waiver form enclosed with the 30-day letter.

For more information on your Farmers' 1952 Income Tax, consult your local internal revenue agent, or obtain the 28-page bulletin, "Farmers' 1952 Income Tax," from your county agent.

Beall And Butler Will Seek Posts On Senate Body

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Both of Maryland's U. S. Senators are going to ask for places on the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in the new Congress, they said today.

Sen. John Marshall Butler, who has served two years of his first term, said the commerce committee is his first choice because of the importance of shipping and railroads in Maryland.

Baltimore, as the nation's No. 2 port, he said, should have a member on the committee.

Senator-elect J. Glenn Beall, five-term Congressman from Western Maryland about to start his first term in the Senate, said he wants to be a member of the committee because of his interest in railroads.

Both Butler and Beall will have the advantage of being Republicans but both are short on seniority.

Butler rated his chances of getting on the committee at "good to almost certain." Beall declined to speculate.

Butler selected the Armed Services Committee, the Banking and Currency Committee and the Appropriations Committee as alternate choices, in that order. He has been serving on the Postoffice and Civil Service committee and the District of Columbia Committee.

Beall gave his second and third choices as the Finance Committee and the Banking and Currency Committee.

The assignments will be made shortly after the new Congress convenes next week. The Republican assignments will be made by that party's committee on committees.

Mrs. Coulehan's Will Probated

The will of Mrs. Louisa A. Coulehan, who died December 19 at the age of 83, was admitted to probate yesterday in Allegany County Orphans Court.

Two grandsons, James Daniel Mathews and John C. Mathews, were bequeathed a bank account in the Second National Bank and a vacant lot on Columbia Avenue. Dining room furniture was left to Cecil Coulehan, widow of R. Vincent Coulehan, her son, who died earlier in December.

China was bequeathed to Lelia Mathews, her daughter; Cecil Coulehan and Mary Mathews, share and share alike. All of the remaining household furniture and personal belongings and effects were left to Lelia Mathews. Mrs. Coulehan's two brothers, Benjamin DeMoss and Clifford DeMoss, were bequeathed $100 each.

All of the rest of the estate was left, share and share alike, to James Daniel Mathews, Mary Mathews, John C. Mathews, Lelia Mathews and Cecil Coulehan. E. J. Wellington Metzger, a friend, 804 Columbia Avenue, qualified as executor of the estate. The will was dated December 10, 1951.

Paper Firm, UPA Agree On Increase

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the United Paperworkers of America (CIO), have reached an agreement on a wage increase ranging from one to five cents an hour for employes represented by the union at the company's mills at Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

The agreement was reported last night in a joint statement of the company and the union.

The wage increase agreement, which covers about 4,000 employes in the three Westvaco mills, is subject to ratification by the membership of the three UPA locals.

The wage increase, which cannot be made effective until it is approved by the Wage Stabilization Board, is to be effective as of January 5, 1953, subject to WSB approval.

The increase represents an average increase throughout the union's bargaining unit of between 2 and 2½ cents an hour.

The increase applicable to the common labor rate under the agreement is two cents. At the Luke plant, the common labor rate prior to the increase was $1.38.

Agreement by the company and union was reached here yesterday at a wage reopening discussion held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The Luke local has scheduled a ratification meeting on the pact for Tuesday, January 6, at 1:30 and 7:30 p. m. Similar meetings will be scheduled at Covington and Williamsburg.

Luke Local 676 was represented at the wage discussions by Harry McGowan, president; Kenneth Wilcox, Robert Bryan and Eugene Dawson, vice presidents.

19-Year-Olds In State May Be Drafted

Youths Of 20 To Be Called First

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Maryland's Selective Service office today received authorization from national headquarters in Washington to draft 19-year-olds if necessary to meet its quotas.

However, Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state draft director, said he believed Maryland could fill its February quota of 759 without dipping below 20 years of age.

Authorization to use 19-year-olds had been forecast last Saturday when Selective Service called for the induction of 53,000 men in February, the highest monthly quota since early in the Korean fighting.

State draft headquarters have been under orders to fill their quotas with older men wherever possible.

A spokesman said in Washington Saturday the state offices probably would have to be told to dip into the 19-year-olds if they could not get enough men otherwise.

Today in Washington, Selective Service said that any of its state directors who find it necessary to draft 19-year-olds to fill upcoming calls for the armed forces may do so.

An official told a reporter he did not know how many states would be forced to take 19-year-olds to meet the call for February "but it will be several."

The official said there had been some misunderstanding concerning a February, 1952, directive to the states that they should draft all men 20-years of age or older before taking any 19-year-olds.

He said some people had interpreted this directive to mean that a new one would have to be issued before any of the younger men could be drafted but that this was not the case.

He added that any state unable to meet its quota with older men could call the 19-year-olds without any further authorization from headquarters.

Death Feared In Search For Mrs. Meister

Police Cautious Of Foul Play Theory

Relatives of Mrs. Odessa Frances Meister, 35, of 104 Columbia Street, who has been missing since December 20, fear she has been murdered, although Maryland State Police say they do not yet suspect foul play.

State Police approached the foul play theory with caution in discussing the disappearance of Mrs. Meister, who has not been seen since she got on a bus to report for work at the Amcelle Plant.

A leading clue which took State Police, Boy Scouts, and volunteer firemen to the Bowman's Addition area Monday was a red pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Meister.

A two-hour combing of the section resulted in the finding of a handkerchief and bobby pin near where the pocketbook was located Sunday in a ravine off Park Avenue in Bowman's Addition.

Police said that a tip given by one of the searchers also failed to yield additional clues. The searcher said he peered through an opening in a remote spot atop a knoll opposite Wills Mountain and saw what he thought to be a large bundle wrapped in red and dark clothing.

At the time she left her home Mrs. Meister was wearing a red coat and dark blue skirt. No additional search of the area is planned, according to William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the Maryland State Police.

City Will Clean Brush From Bed Of Wills Creek

The Street Department is planning to clean brush and trees from Wills Creek this winter.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, said this should be the last time the city will have to clean the channel, since the Corps of Engineers should complete its channel improvement work before the brush grows up again.

She said the work will be done before spring by city workers.

Mrs. Roeder recommended that the channel be cleaned out before spring, when high waters are to be expected.

The Street Department has asked that the 1952-53 budget include $1,000 for the channel improvement project, but the item was eliminated when the budget was prepared.

City officials promised that efforts will be made to find the money for the work.

The heavy brush was removed from the channel of the stream two years ago, when a separate item was set up in the budget.

The work will not involve hiring additional workers, as it will be done by city employes.

When Flood Control work now underway in the Narrows is completed the sides and part of the bed of Wills Creek will be paved from the Narrows to where the stream joins the Potomac River here.

The work, however, will be interrupted after it reaches the city limits, since the Corps of Engineers plans to begin the construction of the Industrial Dam across the Potomac River this spring.

Fire Destroys Couple's Home Near Flintstone

Flue Blaze Starts While Owners Away

A flue fire, thought to have been extinguished, flared up again several hours later yesterday to destroy a couple's home on the Old Cumberland Road east of Polish Mountain.

Members of Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company, which received a call too late, said the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert McDonald was crumbling when they arrived at the scene.

However, 15 minutes after firemen received the call at 11 a. m. yesterday, they went into action to save nearby buildings despite the lack of water. Firemen were able to save only half of a 10-by-12-foot building about 12 feet away from the home. The smaller structure was also in flames when firemen arrived.

Two Other Buildings Saved

Two other buildings about eight feet away from the blazing house were also saved by quick-working firemen. These were 12 by 16 feet in size.

The home itself burned to the ground and members of the fire company could only spray water on the remaining embers. Fire officials said the house was a seven or eight-room wood building.

According to investigating firemen, the blaze actually started earlier yesterday morning as a flue fire. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald quickly extinguished the blaze at about 7 a. m.

Later the couple left their home to go to Flintstone. Several hours later, an elderly woman, Mrs. Jessie Maill, formerly of near Flintstone, who is visiting the McDonalds during the holidays, detected the odor of smoke in the kitchen.

Ran For Help

When Mrs. Maill opened a wall cabinet in the room, flames rushed into her face. Unharmed, she ran to a neighbor's home for help. Another neighbor meanwhile ran two miles to the nearest telephone to report the fire.

The fire company, however, was too late to save the building, but worked until 2 p. m. keeping the flames away from nearby structures. Firemen said the only water available was in their own truck's tanks and several trips had to be made to a nearby station for refills. One truck and seven men from the company were on the scene.

Firemen were again called about 6 o'clock yesterday evening to dampen smouldering embers which were spitting sparks, endangering buildings nearby.

Two More Suits Filed As Result Of Fatal Crash

Two more suits, seeking a total of $6,500 damages as a result of the McMullen Highway accident which took five lives August 31, were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Anna Virginia Michael, Westernport, widowed mother of Richard A. Michael, has filed the suits against James Moran, administrator of the estate of Richard D. Moran, another victim of the crash.

These latest suits bring to 10 the number of actions, asking a total of $132,500 damages, that have been docketed as a result of the tragic accident. Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr. has filed all 10 of the suits.

In her declaration, Mrs. Michael states that her son was riding in Richard Moran's car at his invitation and consent at the time of the fatal crash. She asserts that it was Moran's duty to drive or cause the automobile to be driven in a careful and prudent manner. Nevertheless, she says, Timothy M. Gilmore, another victim of the crash, was driving Moran's car at an excessively high and unlawful rate of speed.

Mrs. Michael, a 60-year old woman, said that her son's death has caused her substantial pecuniary damages as he was her sole support. For this loss she asks $5,000 damages. In the second action, Mrs. Michael seeks $1,500 damages for burial, funeral and medical expenses in the death of her son.

Election Rules Will Be Set By Textile Workers

Discussion and action on election procedure to be used for Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America's general election will be held at membership meetings on January 14 and 15.

The first meeting will be held Wednesday, January 14, at 7:30 p. m. and the second on the following morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Playford Aldridge, president, said the election procedure action will be of special importance because recommendations of the Executive Board differ with previous action of the membership, and will require retroaction.

Nomination of officers for 1953 will also be held at the meetings.

Those who desire to accept nomination for any office, but cannot be present at either meeting, must have a note of intention to accept nomination for the office in the hands of the recording secretary by January 14 at 7:30 p. m.

Discussion and action is also planned on questions involving the reopening clause in the local's contract with the Celanese Corporation.

The exact dates for the union's election will have to be set by the Honest Ballot Association of New York.

Union officials said the dates of the meeting were incorrectly announced last week as January 7 and 8, adding that the time is set by the by-laws.

Whetsell Given Suspended Term In Purse Theft

Cecil Lawrence Whetsell, 25, of B&O YMCA, Brunswick, formerly of Cumberland, was given a suspended sentence of one year in the Maryland House of Correction on a charge of petty larceny yesterday in Trial Magistrate Court.

City Police arrested Whetsell Monday night in the Queen City Restaurant in connection with the theft of a woman's purse from Lee's Tavern, North Mechanic Street.

Lt. James E. Van of the Detective Bureau said Whetsell was picked up after Mrs. Lewis Edwards, 217 Greene Street, reported he took the purse, containing close to $100.

Van added Whetsell admitted stealing the money and discarding the pocketbook.

Magistrate Donald W. Mason yesterday suspended the one-year term on condition Whetsell make restitution to Mrs. Edwards, abstain from drinking and be of good behavior. He was paroled for two years.

In another theft case yesterday, Harry Davis, 50, of Barton, was given a suspended sentence of 18 months in the House of Correction on a charge of stealing whisky and money from a Barton tavern.

Authorities said Davis took three fifths and two pints of liquor from a tavern operated by Dan Logston. He also stole $14.25 in cash.

State Trooper Harry Bosley, who recovered the stolen goods, said Davis broke into the tavern December 24. He was arrested Friday.

Woman Charged With Operating Disorderly House

Minnie V. Wintermeyer Corrick, proprietor of the York Hotel, was arrested yesterday noon by City Police on a charge of operating a house of ill fame.

She was released under $50 bond, according to Lt. James E. Van, head of the Detective Bureau, pending a hearing in Police Court today at 9 a. m. Assisting Van in making the arrest was Officer Leo E. P. Law.

Information leading to Mrs. Corrick's arrest was obtained yesterday while police questioned James Woody, alias Robert Richardson, 29, of Kirby, W. Va., who is wanted in three states on bad check charges. He was arrested here Monday night.

Van said Woody told him a Pearl Elizabeth Richmond, 49, of 300-block Paca Street, with whom he had been to the hotel on or about December 15, had taken a sum of money from him. Phone Company To Spend Funds Near Oakland

Long Distance Channels Will Be Increased

Expenditure of $9,900 for additional long distance channels from Oakland to points in West Virginia was approved yesterday by the Board of Directors of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City.

Yesterday the C&P directors authorized total expenditures of $4,097,000 for improvement and expansion of telephone facilities in Maryland. These expenditures bring the total approved for new telephone construction in the state during 1952 to $25,213,000.

Many Projects

The major portion of the total approved at yesterday's meeting was $3,607,000 which will be allocated to a large number of projects involving expenditures for the construction and replacement of telephone plants in Maryland during the first quarter of 1953.

An expenditure of $129,000 was authorized for the conversion of 9,200 telephones from manual to dial operation preparatory to the introduction of dial service in Essex. This brings the total amount approved for this project to $2,588,000, including a new building and dial switching equipment.

To further improve service during periods of peak volume of calls, more than $35,000 was authorized for the installation of equipment additions and modifications in the Hyattsville, Shepherd and Wisconsin dial centers in the Maryland suburban area adjacent to Washington.

Expansion Of Cable

A total of $24,500 was allocated for the expansion of cable facilities in the Accokeek and Piscataway sections of Southern Maryland and in the Bowleys Quarters Road section of the Chase Exchange. These two projects will provide facilities to take care of waiting applicants for telephone service.

"The concerted effort to meet civilian and defense demands for telephone service, the further improvement in the quality of that service and the need for higher rates to improve the company's earnings during a continuing period of inflation highspotted C&P operations in Maryland during 1952," W. G. Morrel, C&P vice-president, said.

Large construction projects entirely or substantially completed during the year included new buildings and new dial equipment at Hyattsville, Frederick, Leonardtown, Oakland and Smithsburg as well as a new building at Essex for dial service in 1953. Substantial additions to both local and toll dial equipment were made in Baltimore, Towson and in the area adjacent to Washington, Morrel stated.

W. P. Darr Gets Two-Year Term In Motor Case

William P. "Buck" Darr, 45, of Rawlings, who once served a 90-day manslaughter term on weekends, was sentenced to two years in the Maryland House of Correction for breaking three state motor laws.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason handed Darr a one-year term for drunken driving, six months for reckless driving, and six months for driving after his license had been revoked. Mason said the six-months terms will run consecutively, the year sentence concurrently with the other terms. Darr thus will be eligible for parole after serving a full year.

Darr was arrested Saturday night after his car hit the Virginia Avenue subway. When he was taken to court yesterday, Magistrate Mason sent him back to jail until court attaches could check over his long record of motor vehicle violations.

They found:

"April 18, 1931 arrested for failing to report an accident, fined $40 and costs, reckless driving, $50 and costs and driving without a license, $10 and costs. He was acquitted of drunken driving and having no permanent dealer tags.

"April 29, 1931 license revoked; December 9, 1950 license reinstated; December 20, 1950, fatal accident; December 20, 1950 license withheld; January 10, 1951 manslaughter, 90 days in jail; April 9, 1951 failure to report before the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, license revoked, and June 14, 1951 operating on a revoked license, fined $100 and costs."

Darr's wife, Mrs. Mary Catherine (Phillips) Darr, 40, died in December, 1950 at Allegany Hospital, five hours after she was struck by her husband's tractor-trailer on Route 220 in front of their home.

After Associate Judge George Henderson passed sentence, Darr was permitted to serve the 90-day term on weekends.

Farmers Have Recourse If Income Tax Is Questioned

This is the last of three articles on farmers' 1952 income tax. Previous articles discussed increased tax rates, sale of the farm home, installment sales of farms, and sale of livestock as capital assets.

Growing crops, when sold with the farm, can be counted as part of the sale price of the farm, under the following conditions: 1) the land on which the crops are growing must have been owned 6 months or more; 2) the crop must be unharvested; 3) land and crops must be sold to the same person; 4) expenses in producing the crop cannot be deducted in arriving at capital gains; and 5) the sale occurs in taxable years beginning in 1951.

Recourse Possible

If your return is questioned, and at a conference with a local representative of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, payment of additional tax is required, there are several recourses which you may wish to follow. First, you may ask for an informal conference to discuss the proposed adjustments. Second, if it is clear to you that you owe the amount requested, you may sign a waiver and pay the additional tax. If you are not satisfied with the explanation furnished by the conferee, you should not sign a waiver and you will receive a 30-day letter. The receipt of the 30-day letter gives you 30 days in which to decide whether the additional tax is owed and to choose one of three courses of action.

May File Protest

First, you may file a formal protest, under oath, and request that the case be transferred to the Appellate Division of the District. Second, you can, by request, or by simply failing to respond during the 30-day period, secure the issuance of the statutory notice from which an appeal may be taken to the Tax Court of the United States. Third, you may sign the waiver form enclosed with the 30-day letter.

For more information on your Farmers' 1952 Income Tax, consult your local internal revenue agent, or obtain the 28-page bulletin, "Farmers' 1952 Income Tax," from your county agent.

Beall And Butler Will Seek Posts On Senate Body

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Both of Maryland's U. S. Senators are going to ask for places on the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee in the new Congress, they said today.

Sen. John Marshall Butler, who has served two years of his first term, said the commerce committee is his first choice because of the importance of shipping and railroads in Maryland.

Baltimore, as the nation's No. 2 port, he said, should have a member on the committee.

Senator-elect J. Glenn Beall, five-term Congressman from Western Maryland about to start his first term in the Senate, said he wants to be a member of the committee because of his interest in railroads.

Both Butler and Beall will have the advantage of being Republicans but both are short on seniority.

Butler rated his chances of getting on the committee at "good to almost certain." Beall declined to speculate.

Butler selected the Armed Services Committee, the Banking and Currency Committee and the Appropriations Committee as alternate choices, in that order. He has been serving on the Postoffice and Civil Service committee and the District of Columbia Committee.

Beall gave his second and third choices as the Finance Committee and the Banking and Currency Committee.

The assignments will be made shortly after the new Congress convenes next week. The Republican assignments will be made by that party's committee on committees.

Two grandsons, James Daniel Mathews and John C. Mathews, were bequeathed a bank account in the Second National Bank and a vacant lot on Columbia Avenue. Dining room furniture was left to Cecil Coulehan, widow of R. Vincent Coulehan, her son, who died earlier in December.

All of the remaining household furniture and personal belongings and effects were left to Lelia Mathews. Mrs. Coulehan's two brothers, Benjamin DeMoss and Clifford DeMoss, were bequeathed $100 each.

All of the rest of the estate was left, share and share alike, to James Daniel Mathews, Mary Mathews, John C. Mathews, Lelia Mathews and Cecil Coulehan. E. J. Wellington Metzger, a friend, 804 Columbia Avenue, qualified as executor of the estate. The will was dated December 10, 1951.

Paper Firm, UPA Agree On Increase

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and the United Paperworkers of America (CIO), have reached an agreement on a wage increase ranging from one to five cents an hour for employes represented by the union at the company's mills at Luke, Covington, Va., and Williamsburg, Pa.

The agreement was reported last night in a joint statement of the company and the union.

The wage increase agreement, which covers about 4,000 employes in the three Westvaco mills, is subject to ratification by the membership of the three UPA locals.

The wage increase, which cannot be made effective until it is approved by the Wage Stabilization Board, is to be effective as of January 5, 1953, subject to WSB approval.

The increase represents an average increase throughout the union's bargaining unit of between 2 and 2½ cents an hour.

The increase applicable to the common labor rate under the agreement is two cents. At the Luke plant, the common labor rate prior to the increase was $1.38.

Agreement by the company and union was reached here yesterday at a wage reopening discussion held at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The Luke local has scheduled a ratification meeting on the pact for Tuesday, January 6, at 1:30 and 7:30 p. m. Similar meetings will be scheduled at Covington and Williamsburg.

Luke Local 676 was represented at the wage discussions by Harry McGowan, president; Kenneth Wilcox, Robert Bryan and Eugene Dawson, vice presidents.

19-Year-Olds In State May Be Drafted

Youths Of 20 To Be Called First

BALTIMORE, Dec. 30 (AP)—Maryland's Selective Service office today received authorization from national headquarters in Washington to draft 19-year-olds if necessary to meet its quotas.

However, Col. Henry C. Stanwood, state draft director, said he believed Maryland could fill its February quota of 759 without dipping below 20 years of age.

Authorization to use 19-year-olds had been forecast last Saturday when Selective Service called for the induction of 53,000 men in February, the highest monthly quota since early in the Korean fighting.

State draft headquarters have been under orders to fill their quotas with older men wherever possible.

A spokesman said in Washington Saturday the state offices probably would have to be told to dip into the 19-year-olds if they could not get enough men otherwise.

Today in Washington, Selective Service said that any of its state directors who find it necessary to draft 19-year-olds to fill upcoming calls for the armed forces may do so.

An official told a reporter he did not know how many states would be forced to take 19-year-olds to meet the call for February "but it will be several."

The official said there had been some misunderstanding concerning a February, 1952, directive to the states that they should draft all men 20-years of age or older before taking any 19-year-olds.

He said some people had interpreted this directive to mean that a new one would have to be issued before any of the younger men could be drafted but that this was not the case.

He added that any state unable to meet its quota with older men could call the 19-year-olds without any further authorization from headquarters.

Death Feared In Search For Mrs. Meister

Police Cautious Of Foul Play Theory

Relatives of Mrs. Odessa Frances Meister, 35, of 104 Columbia Street, who has been missing since December 20, fear she has been murdered, although Maryland State Police say they do not yet suspect foul play.

State Police approached the foul play theory with caution in discussing the disappearance of Mrs. Meister, who has not been seen since she got on a bus to report for work at the Amcelle Plant.

A leading clue which took State Police, Boy Scouts, and volunteer firemen to the Bowman's Addition area Monday was a red pocketbook belonging to Mrs. Meister.

A two-hour combing of the section resulted in the finding of a handkerchief and bobby pin near where the pocketbook was located Sunday in a ravine off Park Avenue in Bowman's Addition.

Police said that a tip given by one of the searchers also failed to yield additional clues. The searcher said he peered through an opening in a remote spot atop a knoll opposite Wills Mountain and saw what he thought to be a large bundle wrapped in red and dark clothing.

City Will Clean Brush From Bed Of Wills Creek

The Street Department is planning to clean brush and trees from Wills Creek this winter.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner, said this should be the last time the city will have to clean the channel, since the Corps of Engineers should complete its channel improvement work before the brush grows up again.

She said the work will be done before spring by city workers.

Mrs. Roeder recommended that the channel be cleaned out before spring, when high waters are to be expected.

The Street Department has asked that the 1952-53 budget include $1,000 for the channel improvement project, but the item was eliminated when the budget was prepared.

City officials promised that efforts will be made to find the money for the work.

The heavy brush was removed from the channel of the stream two years ago, when a separate item was set up in the budget.

The work will not involve hiring additional workers, as it will be done by city employes.

When Flood Control work now underway in the Narrows is completed the sides and part of the bed of Wills Creek will be paved from the Narrows to where the stream joins the Potomac River here.

The work, however, will be interrupted after it reaches the city limits, since the Corps of Engineers plans to begin the construction of the Industrial Dam across the Potomac River this spring.
